U.S. Planes Strike Deep in N. Vietnam

MANNING THE PHONES AT GROUND LEVEL

(UPI Telephoto)

SAIGON (AP) — Waves of U.S. fighter-bombers pounded missile and antiaircraft gun positions in North Vietnam today in the deepest raids since the bombing halt of the North more than two years ago.

U.S. officials said the raids, in retaliation for recent attacks on unarmed reconnaissance planes flying over the North, would be of limited duration. But other sources speculated they may continue for a few days.

The raids were as deep as 135 miles inside North Vietnam. There was no immediate assessment of results.

Eyewitnesses at Da Nang, 100 miles south of the Demilitarized Zone in the northern part of South Vietnam, said nearly 50 U.S. Air Force warplanes armed with bombs and rockets had taken off from the American base there throughout the day.

Up to 300 other jets were available from bases in Thailand and from two carriers off the Tonkin Gulf, one of which steamed into position Friday night just before the air raids began.

In Paris, the North Vietnamese delegation to the Vietnam peace talks said the U.S. attacks "gravely affect the Paris conference on Vietnam."

"The Nixon administration must bear entire responsibility for all consequences arising from its hostile acts against the Democratic Republic of Vietnam," a statement issued by the delegation said.

The statement called the bombings "an extremely serious act of war against the Democratic Republic of Vietnam, a brazen violation of its sovereignty and security."

North Vietnam said in a radio broadcast that the attacks were "an extremely serious act of war."

In Washington, Defense Secretary Melvin R. Laird said the American planes were hitting North Vietnamese missile and antiaircraft gun positions "in response to attacks on our unarmed reconnaissance aircraft."

He said "limited-duration protective reaction air strikes" were being conducted against antiaircraft sites and related facilities south of the 19th parallel. This line is well south of Hanoi and the port city of Haiphong. Hanoi charged, however, that "the U.S. imperialists recklessly sent many flights of aircraft to encroach upon the air space of the Democratic Republic of Vietnam in Haiphong, Quang Ninh, Ha Tay and Hoa Binh areas."

Secretary of State William P. Rogers faces stiff questioning on why the administration is recommending expanded military and economic aid for Cambodia seven months after Rogers warned against it. Story on page 14.

Haiphong is 135 miles north of the 19th parallel. Hoa Binh is 130 miles north of the 19th parallel and 85 miles inland from Haiphong.

North Vietnam made its charges in radio broadcasts monitored in Hong Kong and Tokyo. The broadcasts said at least three American planes were shot down and that a prisoner of war camp "was hit by bullets from the planes and a number of American captive pilots were injured."

They also said a considerable number of North Vietnamese civilians had been killed.

The location of the POW camp was not disclosed.

Eye witnesses in Da Nang, 100 miles south of the Demilitarized Zone in the northern part of South Vietnam, said about a dozen U.S. Air Force F4 fighter-bombers took off from that base shortly before noon today under extraordinary security conditions. It was not known where the planes were going, but there was speculation that they might be on their way to suppress North Vietnamese ground fire while helicopters moved in to lift out U.S. pilots shot down inside North Vietnam.

The American strike force apparently was enlarged by planes from the American aircraft carrier Hancock, which steamed into the Tonkin Gulf off the coast of North Vietnam early today with 75 warplanes aboard and doubled the 7th Fleet's striking ability in the area.

Prior to the 42,000-ton vessel's arrival from its home base in Alameda, Calif., the only U.S. carrier in the gulf had been the Oriskany, which has been launching strikes over a 200-mile stretch of the Ho Chi Minh trail.

The reason for sending the Hancock into the area was not immediately announced, but sources said before Hanoi made its charges that most of the 150 planes aboard the two carriers were flying with 200 Air Force planes from bases in Thailand and South Vietnam in a campaign to stem the flow of North Vietnamese war materials southward into Cambodia and South Vietnam.

Radio Hanoi, in a Vietnamese-language broadcast monitored in Hong Kong, said the raids were carried out by "wave after wave" of U.S. planes. The attacks lasted more than an hour, the broadcast said.

Hanoi's official Vietnamese News Agency, quoting a communiqué from the high command of the North Vietnamese army, gave a similar report in an English-language broadcast monitored in Tokyo.

Both broadcasts said at least three American jet fighter-bombers and one U.S. helicopter were shot down.

Acquittal for Mitchell

FT. HOOD, Tex. (AP)—Sgt. David Mitchell has been acquitted in the first My Lai case to reach a court-martial verdict.

Mitchell, 30, a 10-year Army veteran, had been charged with assault with intent to murder by shooting at 30 unarmed civilians at the Vietnamese hamlet on March 16, 1968.

Nine other GIs are charged in connection with the incident that occurred during a combat swing through My Lai.

"I always thought the Army was a great outfit. Now, I know it," said Mitchell, son of a Baptist minister who lives in St. Francisville, La.

A military jury of seven officers, including six Vietnam veterans, returned the verdict Friday night after six hours and 50 minutes of deliberations.

Mitchell was a squad leader in Company C, the same outfit in which Lt. William L. Calley is being court-martialed at Ft. Benning, Ga., on charges he murdered 102 civilians.

The Army is still processing charges against eight other members of the Americal Division.

When the jury returned to announce its verdict, Mitchell stood at attention and saluted.

"Sgt. David Mitchell, this court has found you not guilty," said Col. Francis Giacomozzi, president of the court.

Mitchell's wife, Rosa, leaped to her feet and shouted, "Oh!"

"Sit down in the courtroom," ordered Col. George R. Robinson, the military judge, who banged his gavel until the woman was seated.

Mitchell returned to his chair and slumped down in it.

His attorney, Ossie Brown, strode past him, patting Mitchell on the shoulder.

Mitchell had taken the stand in his own defense. With tears streaming down his cheeks, he testified Thursday, "I shot at no one."

Eight other defense witnesses testified that Mitchell was not at a ditch in My Lai where the Army charged he fired at huddled men, women and children.

The prosecution presented three witnesses. Two said they saw Mitchell fire his rifle into the ditch. One said he saw Mitchell raise his rifle but neither saw nor heard a report from it. None said they saw any bullets strike the people huddled in the ditch.

Robinson instructed the jurors that the presumption of innocence is "perhaps the tallest tree in our forest of legal presumptions."

Robinson said the jury should carefully consider the credibility of each witness since, he said, there were inconsistencies in their testimony.

Additionally, the judge told the officers to consider a "peeping Tom" conviction against one of the witnesses, Charles of Sardia, Miss., in reflecting on Sledge's testimony.

Sledge had testified that he saw Mitchell fire his rifle into the ditch crowded with men, women and children.

The judge told the jury to recall denials by defense witnesses that Mitchell was at the ditch.

Robinson said the jury should also weigh the effect of character witnesses who appeared for Mitchell, including affidavits from a judge, a dentist, a sheriff and a congressman.

After the jury retired to decide Mitchell's fate, he wiped at tears and embraced his wife outside the courtroom.

"The only thing we can do now is pray," said Mitchell's father, the Rev. Isaiah Mitchell, present with Mitchell's mother.

After the verdict, Mitchell smiled broadly and indicated he planned to stay in the Army.

Picture of Death Described

CALLEY (R) AND ATTORNEYS ENTER COURT

(UPI Telephoto)

FT. BENNING, Ga. (UPI)—The murder court-martial of Lt. William L. Calley closed out its first week with a word picture of Vietnamese civilian men and women piled dead or dying in an irrigation ditch.

The picture was provided by the last witness Friday, Richard Pendleton, 22, of Richmond, Calif., a small, thin college student with a pinched face and dark hair, falling nearly to his shoulders. He had been a rifleman in the sweep of a village in which Calley is accused of murdering 102 civilians.

The government has said it intends to prove Calley ordered people shoved into the ditch and executed and that he and members of the platoon he commanded killed more than 75 there.

The witness, who attends

Contra Costa Junior College, testified he saw 40 or 50 bodies in the ditch, in a pile 30 feet in length "in a group, on top of each other, with more bodies in the middle than at the edges."

In his opinion, they were dead. He said two other soldiers accompanied him to the ditch, which was 7 to 10 feet deep and 10 or 15 across.

"Did one fire into the ditch?" asked Maj. Kenneth Raby of the defense counsel staff.

Pendleton answered yes, but made it plural with a later answer: "I can't say whether they fired at people who were still living."

Under Raby's cross-examination, Pendleton said that in another area he saw a child of two or three years get shot in the presence of Capt. Ernest Medina, commander of the company that swept through the sub-hamlet of My Lai 4 that day, March 16, 1968.

He said Medina gave no order to his medic to treat the boy. That shooting, he said, was near an area in the southern part of the village where there was another group of bodies, "about 15, of all ages and both sexes."

He was the 12th prosecution witness to tell of seeing this group beside a trail.

The witness preceding him, Joe Grimes, 29, of Pasadena, Tex., a former sergeant and squad leader, also said he saw this group.

The prosecution has said it will show that Calley helped kill the group by the trail. It has yet to connect him with anything, but one witness Friday said he believed he saw Calley in the area.

Medina has been charged with overall responsibility for the purported slaughter, but has not been committed to a court-martial.

The court-martial is in recess until Monday. At that time, anyone expected to be called. To date, none of the 12 witnesses called to date by the prosecution has testified that he saw Calley kill

Pedestrian Killed by Car on Route 28

By JON POWERS

WEST HURLEY

A New York City man became the eleventh pedestrian of the year to die on Ulster County highways when he was struck down by a car operated by a teenage girl on Route 28 near the intersection of Route 375 in this Town of Hurley community Friday evening.

A rash of overnight accidents on area roads and highways were reported to The Freeman, including one which resulted in serious injuries to a State Police investigator.

A two-car pileup on the Minnewaska Trail in the Town of Rochester Friday night sent six persons to an area hospital. The driver of one of the vehicles is in serious condition today.

The New York State Thruway was closed to southbound traffic for about 15 minutes Friday afternoon after a tractor-trailer truck jackknifed, spilling high-octane fuel over the superhighway.

Albert Albu, 57, of 25 South

Street, New York City, died of injuries sustained when he was hit by a car on Route 28 in West Hurley at 5:40 p.m. Friday, according to State Police authorities.

Albu was reportedly crossing the four-lane highway about 150 feet east of the Route 375 intersection when he was struck by a car operated by Wendy Doyle, 18, of Lanesville. The girl, traveling west on the highway, swerved partially into the eastbound lane to avoid the man who was crossing the heavily traveled highway from north to south.

After the man was struck and thrown to the pavement, it was reported that another auto ran over the body and then continued without stopping. State Police are investigating this report.

Albu was pronounced dead at the scene. The girl was taken to Kingston Hospital and treated for shock. Criminal action is not pending at this time, police noted.

John Cutter, 33, a State Police investigator stationed at Troop Headquarters in Middletown, sustained severe multiple injuries in a one-car crash while returning to the Orange County barracks. His condition is listed as serious at Community General Hospital in Monticello.

A head-on crash on the twisting Route 44-55, known as the Minnewaska Trail, in the Town of Rochester resulted in injuries to six persons, according to Ellenville troopers.

A car operated by Charles R. DiPalerno, 28, of Lindenhurst was traveling west on the highway when it lost control, skidded and entered the eastbound lane, striking an auto operated by John P. Knowlton, 18, of Kerhonkson.

A passenger in the DiPalerno vehicle, Richard Trimble, 24, of Rosendale, sustained fractured ribs and internal injuries and is in serious condition today at Ellenville Community Hospital. Two other passengers in the car, Margaret Razzano, 21, of Westbury and Michael Pagano, 28, of Rosendale, sustained contusions, abrasions and lacerations. DiPalerno received lacerations.

Knowlton sustained a lacerated forehead and a passenger in his car, George Sherman, 19, of Kerhonkson sustained multiple lacerations. All were taken to the Ellenville hospital.

A tractor-trailer truck operated by George Fisher of 57 Main Street in Rosendale went out of control after a rear tire blew out at milepost 100 near Sauger-ties on the Thruway at 2:05 p.m. Friday. The truck then sideswiped a Thruway maintenance vehicle parked in the southbound passing lane in a marked workzone and then jackknifed. The tank portion of the truck was then ripped open, spilling high octane gasoline on the superhighway.

Police closed the road for about 15 minutes while Mt. Marion-Ruby and Thruway firemen spread foam over the highway.

There were no injuries in the crash. Fisher was cited for operating without a log book.

Peter Kopko, 47, of 116 Wilbur Avenue was cited for driving while intoxicated, leaving the scene of an accident and failure to keep to the right after his car collided with another vehicle operated by Joseph Mehn, 27, of Kingston on Wilbur Avenue near West O'Reilly Street at 3:20 a.m. today.

There were no injuries in the crash. Kopko was scheduled to answer the three charges today in City Court.

Thanksgiving Services Slated

Thanksgiving will be marked with special church observances Sunday and on Thanksgiving Eve.

The Kingston Area Council of Churches is sponsoring Thanksgiving Eve services at the Clinton Avenue United Methodist Church Wednesday 7:30 p.m. for uptown area residents. The Rev. Edward C. Morton, minister of the Franklin Street A.M.E. Zion Church will be speaker.

Other Thanksgiving Eve services in Kingston include a union service at St. Paul's Lutheran Church, 355 Hasbrouck Avenue. Congregations of both St. Paul's and Mt. Calvary Lutheran, Ruby, will attend the worship at 7:30 p.m. conducted by the pastor the Rev. Donald R. Billeck. A coffee hour will follow the service.

The congregations of Trinity Lutheran Church and the Lutheran Church of the Redeemer will join in their annual Thanksgiving Eve service in the sanctuary of Redeemer Church at Wurts and Rogers Streets on Wednesday evening at 7:30 o'clock.

Continuing a tradition begun over 30 years ago by the two churches, the service will include a sermon by the Rev. Frederick E. Preuss of West Hurley who has been recent interim pastor of Trinity Church on the topic, "The Forgotten Inventor." The Rev. Mr. Preuss who was pastor of Ascension Lutheran Church in Glendale, Queens for 32 years before his retirement is a new resident of the area.

The service will be in charge of the host pastor, the Rev. David C. Gaise, D.D., and choral music by the senior choir.

Fiery Crash Kills Three From Upstate

INDIAN LAKE, N.Y. (AP) — A fiery three-vehicle crash on Route 28 in this Adirondack Mountain community Friday night killed four men, State Police said.

The victims were identified by police as: William Bennett, 47, of Indian Lake; and James A. Carpenter, 27, James Michelucci and James Carma, both in their 20s. The younger men were from Hudson Falls.

Police said the Hamilton County crash involved a pickup truck carrying the three Hudson Falls men on a hunting trip and two cars, one driven by Bennett, the other by Edward Parker of Indian Lake, who escaped injury.

Troopers said the Bennett auto and the truck became entangled, causing an explosion which burned both vehicles. Volunteer firemen from North River and Indian Lake hosed down the wreckage.

The dead were trapped inside the vehicles, police said. Witnesses told police the area had heavy rains all evening.

The accident occurred on North River Hill near the meeting point of Hamilton, Warren and Essex counties.

Moynihan Set For UN Post

BOSTON (UPI) — President Nixon has picked urban affairs advisor Daniel P. Moynihan to replace Charles W. Yost as U.S. ambassador to the United Nations, it was learned Friday.

The planned appointment, disclosed in a copyrighted report in the Boston Globe, was confirmed privately by White House officials later in the day said it would be announced "early next year."

Press Secretary Ronald L. Zeigler declined comment but would not refute the report.

Moynihan, 43, a Democrat on two-year leave of absence from Harvard University, was in Acapulco, Mexico, on government business today and was not immediately available for comment.

Yost, also a Democrat, had no comment on the move. A career diplomat, he was appointed by Nixon in January, 1969.

Ask 2nd Chance for 'Shoeshine' Cadet

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Army has been asked to reinstate a teen-age cadet at West Point who was booted out of the U.S. Military Academy this week over a shoe shining incident.

Rep. William R. Anderson, D-Tenn., wrote Army Secretary Stanley Resor about the "harsh and cruel treatment" given the cadet, William Greer Puckett of Tullahoma, Tenn.

According to Anderson, who earlier this year revealed the so-called tiger cages in South Vietnam's prison system, Puckett was standing in a formation when an upper classman asked him when he last shined his shoes. The young cadet said he had polished them the night before.

After a tinge of conscience three hours later, the cadet "realized he had broken the honor code because in fact he had last shined his shoes a couple days earlier," Anderson said.

The cadet, Anderson said, reported the incident to authorities and then repeated it before the brigade honor board.

"He admitted freely and voluntarily he had not shined his shoes precisely as he had stated," Anderson wrote.

The honor board, Anderson said, gave him a choice of resigning or being kicked out. Puckett shipped home Wednesday.

The congressman, a former career naval officer who commanded the nuclear submarine Nautilus in the first undersea voyage ever made beneath the North Pole, said the incident "helps me understand at least partially one of the causes for this disrespect for service on the part of your young men."

Anderson, who appointed Puckett to West Point, said, "This is a fuzzy kind of honor to hold up to the nation as an example of military procedure."

The youth's parents reported the incident to Anderson this past Monday — the same day South Vietnamese Vice President Nguyen Cao Ky was honored at West Point.

"General Ky represents a government which represses its political dissenters with brutal arrests, torture and imprisonment — under conditions which can only be described as inhuman," Anderson wrote. "Yet, West Point honors this man and dishonors a young cadet because of a simple mistake which he tried to rectify as soon as he reflected upon it."

Spiro Praises the Press; Then Offers Some Advice

HONOLULU (AP) — Vice President Spiro T. Agnew, addressing an audience of editors, says he believes his views have been reported fairly—even by newsmen "who I happen to know do not suffer from ardor for Agnew."

"I have marveled at how well you have made this the best informed nation on earth," he said. "I regard America's press as the best and strongest in the world."

But the vice president sparred with a panel of editors on various press topics following his speech Friday to the Associated Press Managing Editors, closing the group's four-day convention.

Agnew, speaking to more than 400 representatives of AP member newspapers, conceded that he is denounced as a foe of all journalism.

"Here we have America's greatest menace to the free press," he quipped at the beginning of his remarks. "I hope you will see fit to preside over the reconstruction of my image with the news media."

The vice president said that if censorship exists in the United States, "it is not done by government, but by news media."

"I can give the most thoughtful speech I can compose," he said, "but how much of it is conveyed depends on the reporter. Is the reporter more interested in a catchword or phrase that he believes sensational... or is he conscientiously trying to convey the message?"

In a departure from his prepared address, the vice president took a slap at a national television network.

"On the night of the first Moratorium, one of the major networks, NBC, showed a documentary with the events of the day. Included in it was a splendid film clip from a speech I'd made in Dallas 10 days earlier."

"It was made to appear that I was denouncing student demonstrators," he said. "The quote in the Dallas speech was taken out of context to fit the situation."

Agnew said freedom of the press goes beyond the right of the publisher to print a newspaper or a magazine.

"It is a right of the people—their right to know what is going on in their society and to have access to all pertinent information," he said.

"They are entitled to that information as fully, as fairly, as impartially as you can present it. That, I believe, is what the framers of the Bill of Rights had in mind."

Kidnaper a 'Perfect Gentleman'; Grabbed 2 Policemen, 3 Civilians

COVINGTON, Va. (AP) — Three hostages, released unharmed after a three-state trip with a heavily armed Ohio prison parolee, say they were treated well and one called their abductor "a perfect gentleman."

The parolee earlier had left two policemen handcuffed to a church sink in Bayard, Ohio, and fled, Ohio authorities said, with a .45-caliber pistol and two revolvers belonging to the officers.

The three civilians, all from Minerva, Ohio, were prepared to return today to Cincinnati as police and the Federal Bureau of Investigation conducted a six-state search for the parolee, identified by Ohio authorities as James Edward Kelley, 42, of Cleveland.

"We are all okay," said Joseph Plott, 24, after he and his sister, Nurissa, 17, and Connie Elliott, 30, were released Friday night.

Police said Kelley locked the three in a utility room of a Covington service station after filling his car with gasoline and holding up the station operator. He took about $250 at gunpoint from Conrad Maynard, along with license plates from a car at the station, then left, police said.

Alerts were sent out to Tennessee, Georgia, Florida, North Carolina and South Carolina in addition to a statewide alert in Virginia.

The incident began in a Cleveland suburb. Police Sgt. Ronald Barac, 34, said he noticed a tag violation on Kelley's car and started to radio his headquarters.

He said he heard Kelley say, "Please don't do that," then the man pulled a gun. He forced him to drive to Edinboro, Pa., then turned back to Ohio.

Two hundred policemen using helicopters and bloodhounds searched the area around Barac's abandoned police cruiser. Barac said Kelley treated him well, offering cigars but still holding a gun in each hand while driving.

Kelley's car broke down and he handcuffed Barac to the sink, police said, then he abducted another patrolman in his cruiser outside a restaurant at nearby Minerva. He took Patrolman Richard E. Klaes to the sink along side Barac.

Police said Kelley then picked up three civilian hostages in their car and began the trip here.

Kelley was released on parole from the Chillicothe Correctional Institute last month after serving time on a 77-to-35 year prison term for breaking and entering, carrying a concealed weapon and shooting to wound, police said.

Police Searching For Monroe Bandits

MONROE
State Police are reportedly closing in on a pair of bandits who held up a supermarket in this Orange County community Friday night and made off with an undetermined amount of cash and two hostages.

Some 50 law enforcement personnel have fanned out over a rural area near the Monroe Country Club, not far from the spot where the suspect's abandoned getaway car was found early this morning.

The robbers are now believed to be on foot. Roadblocks have been set up, and police are combing the area for the pair.

The two hostages, who were not identified, were released shortly after the robbery took place at about 8 p.m. Friday. Both were unharmed.

The abandoned vehicle was found soon after the hostages were released.

According to the Orange County Sheriff's Department, the pair help up the Grand Union Supermarket in Monroe, a community 20 miles south of Middletown. They held the store's manager and one other person hostage for several hours. Police did not state whether the pair was armed. The exact amount of cash taken in the holdup was not revealed.

The investigation is under the direction of State Police Lieutenant Peter Gromacki, of the Monroe barracks. State Police and Sheriff's deputies are participating in the search for the holdup men.

Anti-Poverty Lawyer, Aide Fired From Their Positions

WASHINGTON (AP) — The government's top anti-poverty lawyer and his chief deputy have been fired because, their boss says, they condoned actions not in the best interest of the poor and violated the law. Terry F. Lenzner, youthful director of the controversial legal services program of the Office of Economic Opportunity, and his deputy, Frank Jones, were removed from their posts Friday night by OEO director Donald Rumsfeld.

Arthur Reid, 40, deputy general counsel of the OEO, was named acting director of the program, which administers about 1,900 attorneys in 850 offices nationwide. No immediate replacement was named for Jones.

"It has become evident that Mr. Lenzner and Mr. Jones are either unwilling or unable to administer the program in a manner consistent with the policies and mission of the Office of Economic Opportunity," said Rumsfeld.

"Under the circumstances, I have no alternative but to replace them with individuals who will effectively administer the program. I regret that circumstances require this decision."

As examples of cases that caused the firings, an OEO spokesman said: —The New Orleans legal services agency is representing at least 12 defendants in a criminal case, despite OEO law that permits its lawyers to represent defendants in civil cases only.

—The Western Center on Law and Poverty in Los Angeles represents, in two suits, at least 12 persons earning $11,000 to $15,000. Legal services attorneys are expected to handle only the cases of those living in poverty, basically those making no more than $3,200 a year.

—The Dallas Legal Service unit is representing a college student, son of a well-to-do businessman, who chose to live in poverty. Lawyers are not permitted to handle cases of persons who opt to live below their means, a spokesman said.

The legal services program has received wide political opposition, especially from local politicians, because of its success in law reform cases against the establishment.

These include challenges of cuts in welfare payments.

Lenzner mobilized the American Bar Association against a plan, promulgated by Rumsfeld, to hand his agency, piecemeal, to the political appointees running OEO's regional offices. General regionalization of OEO began in the Johnson administration and has been continued under Rumsfeld.

Three-Month Term On School Bomb Threat

KINGSTON
Amy Landerway, 20, of 101 Abell Street, arrested Nov. 13 and charged with falsely reporting an incident in connection with a bomb threat that forced evacuation of Kingston High School that day, was sentenced to three months in jail this morning by City Judge Hubert Richter.

Salvia Marshall, 16, of 92 Emerick Street, who was arrested along with Miss Landerway on the same charge, had her case postponed until Dec. 5, at which time she will be sentenced.

Both girls pleaded guilty after their arrest Nov. 13 by Kingston city detectives from the Police Department.

The pair are charged with making only one of the three false bomb threats. Investigation into the other two calls is continuing.

Arrest Man In Shooting

HIGH FALLS
A 21-year-old Connecticut man is in Ulster County Jail in lieu of $10,000 bail on a charge of first degree reckless endangerment after he allegedly shot Wilfred Cormier, 25, of High Falls through both legs early this morning in High Falls.

David Allen McClair is scheduled for a later court appearance before Town of Kingston Justice Robert Ferrigan at a date to be determined later. He was arraigned before Ferrigan this morning.

Cormier was rushed to Kingston Hospital with severe wounds in both legs. Police said his condition was serious. McClair was arrested by State Police this morning in High Falls.

The incident reportedly took place at about 4:30 this morning.

Police are continuing the investigation.

Accident Kills Gardiner Man

GARDINER
Willie Roosevelt Jackson, 60, of Clark Farm, Gardiner was killed today after he reportedly suffered a heart seizure, toppled out of his automobile while it was parked in his driveway, and was pinned under the front wheel of the car, according to State Police.

Jackson was discovered by his wife at about 7 a.m. this morning.

Ulster County Coroner Arthur Chipp ruled that the death was accidental. The investigation is continuing.

State Police speculated that the man had been pinned under the wheel of the car for several hours before he died.

Strength in Rebounding

Ulster Cage Squad Ready for Season Opener

By CHARLES J. TIANO
Sports Editor

KINGSTON

Ulster County Community College launches its sixth basketball season under Coach Mike Perry next Tuesday against powerful Westchester CCC with a team that has "the best rebounding strength we have ever had" and three better than average shooters.

That can mean only one thing, UCCC will be representative and rugged on the hardwoods in the upcoming 1970-71 season. The more spacious and better lighted Kate Walton field house will give Coach Perry's Senators a better chance to exploit every trick in an overflowing bag.

UCCC's main shooting power will be drawn from captain Glenn Berry, successor to the fabulous Jerry Moss; Clifford Weeks, a graduate of Bishop Ford High School in Brooklyn and Gary McDonald of Leesville, La.

"Our shooting is slightly weaker than last season, but our overall team balance is good," said the highly successful coach who enters the new season with a career record of 100 wins and only 27 defeats.

Last season, UCCC compiled a 23-5 record, won its third straight Mid-Hudson Conference crown and made the Region XV tournament for the third straight year.

"I think our rebounding power will give us great ball control and a multiple opportunity to shoot," the coach explained. "We look for Berry and Weeks to be effective on inside shots, while McDonald and George Civile handle the outside shooting assignments."

Coach Perry's "leapers" will be put to a severe test against arch rival Westchester, described as the "tallest college team in the East." Led by Captain John Iasello, a 6-8, 225-pounder, Westchester features a trio of 6-5 players and a "shorty" at 6-3.

UCCC's tentative starting lineup shapes up like this:

Glenn Berry—team captain; 6-3, 170-pound former All-City and All-Queens at Bryant High. He is a great ball handler, leader and averaged a solid 17 points in the shadow of Jerry Moss last season. Was All-Mid-Hudson Conference and Honorable Mention in Region XV.

Clifford Weeks—a 6-4½, 190-pounder out of Bishop Ford

High School in Brooklyn. MVP in the tough Catholic High School AA, all-star team in the Mt. St. Michael tournament. He also was voted MVP in the Bedford Stuyvesant Athletic Search Tournament which attracted more than 75 coaches from across the country.

Gerard (Rod) Wilkinson, a 6-3, 175-pound rebounding wizard out of St. Albans Andrew Jackson High School in Queens. Returns to school after a three-year Army hitch.

Perry is high on Wilkinson. "He's a great rebounder and a sure starter," he says.

George Civile—a student at Marist College out of Roselle (N.J.) Catholic High. Was All-Parochial captain and a real threat from the outside.

Gary McDonald—Played three years and was team MVP and All-District in Leesville, La. He stands 6-2 and weighs 162 pounds. McDonald set an all-time Leesville High scoring record with 46 points in one game last season.

The No. 6 player in the current ratings is Roger Govantes, 5-9, 190 pounds out of Long Island City. Coach Perry describes him as "quick and good on defense."

Rounding out the squad are

Brad Liddle, a 6-footer from Bryant High; two purely local products, Dallas Pickett, ex-KHS and Pat Harder, a top scorer at John Coleman High last season.

Also from the area is Rickey DeLosa, a 6-5, 190-pound performer out of Cairo High.

Despite the loss of a superstar, UCCC's new edition has all the required components of a good basketball team—speed, shooting power, rebounding and defense. If it gets by all powerful Westchester, it can go on to rate with the other great Senator squads in Perry's regime.

NBA Breaks Off Merger Talks With ABA Teams

NEW YORK (AP) — Once which would permit the formation of a single professional basketball league.

Kosloff said the majority of NBA owners decided to "cut off negotiations" at a meeting in New York Wednesday.

In Los Angeles, Sam Schulman, owner of the Seattle SuperSonics of the NBA, said Kosloff's pledge of no-holds barred warfare with the ABA "could very well be correct, but I would hope that it would not be the case."

The Seattle owner added, "I have my doubts in the near future" for a merger.

He disclosed the NBA had given the ultimatum had to do with an anti-trust suit filed by the ABA against the NBA some time ago. The suit, these sources said, was to have been withdrawn by 5 p.m. EST, Friday, but this was not done.

Jack Dolph, commissioner of the ABA, said he had received the NBA statement and "I will discuss it with our league's merger committee on Monday."

Chuck Devoe, president of the ABA Indiana Pacers, declared, "I'm not completely surprised. I imagine that it is in part a reaction to the Caldwell signing by Carolina."

Informed sources, who declined use of their names, indi-

He referred to veteran Joe Caldwell, formerly a star for the Atlanta Hawks of the NBA, who signed a contract last month with the ABA Carolina Cougars.

At the time Kenney declared "such action on the part of Carolina hardly enhances the possibility of a merger."

A somewhat similar case, involving Billy Cunningham of the 76ers, led to the first rupture of merger talks in August 1969.

"The signing of Caldwell was unethical and illegal," Kosloff said. "Here we had Caldwell and they signed him in disrespect of our reserve clause. If this is the attitude of a prospective partner I'd be against it."

Ed Coll, general manager of the Detroit Pistons of the NBA, said he was surprised at Kenney's statement.

"I feel there will have to be something done about it all eventually. We can't continue to exist under the present condition of salaries and everything. If something isn't done some clubs are going to go out of business."

Richard Pinkham Jr., a trustee of the ABA Indiana team, declared, "Based on the history of this thing, I think it's safe to say the talks will be resumed."

At least on the other occasion they were called off, they resumed. We'll look forward to the time when they resume again."

The negotiations, broken off in August 1969, resumed in secret after a few months.

Last June the leagues announced an agreement in principle on formation of a single league of 28 teams, the NBA 17 world championship series and the ABA 11, in addition to a common draft and a world championship series.

The agreement stipulated that Kenney would be the commissioner of the single league and that the common draft and the would take place "the first year after Congressional approval is achieved."

Congressional approval is necessary for the merger because of anti-trust laws. Congress must specifically grant pro-ketball immunity from anti-trust statutes, such as professional baseball and football already enjoy.

Lanier Leads Piston Win

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The Philadelphia Story kept playing a repeat performance and it was like a bad act until Bob Lanier took over the lead for Detroit.

Lanier played only two quarters, but scored 24 points, to spark Detroit over the Philadelphia 76ers 120-112 Friday night—the first time the Pistons have beaten them in Philadelphia since Dec. 12, 1965.

The Pistons had lost 12 National Basketball Association games in that period.

In other NBA games Friday night, Baltimore blitzed Phoenix 121-110; Boston spilled Cleveland 116-112; Milwaukee ripped Los Angeles 117-100; San Francisco rolled over Buffalo 123-108; 6-foot-11 center scored 22.

Hal Greer tallied 31 points for Philadelphia, who dropped 1½ games behind the idle New York Knicks in the hot Atlantic Division race.

Earl Monroe ruffled in a season-high 31 points, 10 in the final stanza, to lift Baltimore over outgunned Phoenix. He started slowly, missing five of his first six shots, but was on target the rest of the way. Connie Hawkins led the Suns with 23.

Rookie Dave Cowens scored 23 points and took down 15 rebounds for Boston, who snapped a four-game losing string and handed Cleveland its 20th defeat in 21 games. The Cavaliers stunned the Celtics by grabbing a 37-27 lead early in the second period, then Cowens took command.

The Milwaukee Bucks soared to their 12th consecutive victory behind Lew Alcindor's 29 points, Bob Dandridge with 21 and John McGlothin with 18 helped the Bucks attack. Wilt Chamberlain topped Los Angeles with 28 points while Jerry West, on a rare off-night, hit for only 12.

Odie Smith popped in 23 points, leading the San Francisco Warriors over Buffalo. Jeff Mullins had 22 for the Warriors while Don May topped the Braves with 24 points.

Elvin Hayes poured in 50 points and pulled down 25 rebounds in pacing the San Diego Rockets to their rout over the Seattle SuperSonics. Don Kojis had 17 points for the losers.

Canucks In First Place

By United Press International

You'd never believe the Vancouver Canucks were a National Hockey League expansion team.

With the season almost a fourth over, the first-year Canucks aren't in first place—not by a longshot—but they're not embarrassing themselves, either. In fact, through their first 20 games, the fourth-place Canucks have posted a presentable 7-10-3 record. Their point total of 17 is only six less than that of the division-leading Montreal Canadiens and better than that of six other NHL teams.

Vancouver's latest victory came Friday night in the long NHL contest and it was a 7-1 laughter over the Los Angeles Kings. Rookie defenseman Dale Tallon scored one goal and assisted on two others as the Canucks raced to a 2-0 first-period lead and increased it to 5-1 at the two-thirds mark.

Pat Quinn got things rolling with his second goal of the season and Orland Kurtenbach, with an assist from Tallon, rammed home his seventh to make it 2-0 in the first stanza.

Kurtenbach returned the favor at 2:07 of the middle period when he assisted Tallon to his fourth goal. Then two minutes later, Tallon and Paul Popiel set up Andre Boudrias' light flasher.

After Eddie Shack got Los Angeles' lone goal, Rosaire Paiement scored for the Canucks with 14 seconds remaining in the period and Danny Johnson and Jim Wiste turned it into a rout with goals in the third period.

The Milwaukee Bucks soared to their 12th consecutive victory behind Lew Alcindor's 29 points, Bob Dandridge with 21 and John McGlothin with 18 helped the Bucks attack. Wilt Chamberlain topped Los Angeles with 28 points while Jerry West, on a rare off-night, hit for only 12.

Odie Smith popped in 23 points, leading the San Francisco Warriors over Buffalo. Jeff Mullins had 22 for the Warriors while Don May topped the Braves with 24 points.

Elvin Hayes poured in 50 points and pulled down 25 rebounds in pacing the San Diego Rockets to their rout over the Seattle SuperSonics. Don Kojis had 17 points for the losers.

Ford Drops Racing

DETROIT (UPI)—Ford Motor Co.'s decision to immediately drop its racing program may improve the sport, say a top driver and a racing circuit executive.

"Once the factories are completely out, I think racing will be 100 per cent better," said Elmo Langley, one of the top independent drivers in the NASCAR (National Association for Stock Car Auto Racing) Circuit.

Richey Ready For Rod Laver

WEMBLEY, England (UPI)—If Texan Cliff Richey beats Rod Laver today to win the Embassy Indoor tennis title, he'll be richer by $32,000.

Victory for the 23-year-old redhead from San Angelo will give him the 20-tournament International Lawn Tennis Federation prize of $25,000 plus the $7,200 that goes to the men's title winner of the Embassy s event.

Defeat will mean Richey has to survive a minimum of two rounds in the Swedish Open at Stockholm next week to collect the Grand Prix money. He has already earned 56 points to lead from Davis Cup teammate Arthur Ashe and Australia's Ken Rosewall, both of whom have 49 points and who are the only men who can catch him.

Laver, the leading money winner with $168,503 for the year although he has not won any of the major tournaments, has 47 points to date but will not be in Stockholm because of a troublesome ankle.

Richey beat Rosewall, 7-5, 6-2, Friday in his semi-final while Laver turned back South Africa's Cliff Drysdale, 6-4, 6-4, in a lackluster encounter.

If Richey can reproduce the form he displayed in beating Rosewall, then he must be in with a chance of upsetting the defending champion and top seed.

Richey said, "I need two points to be sure of winning the Grand Prix, but the money is not important. I want the title. I will have to pay between $25,000-30,000 taxes so I shall not be able to keep much of my winnings, but winning is what counts."

Long Beach Beats Foe

ANAHEIM, Calif. (UPI)—An 82-yard by halfback Jim Kirby and one of 59 yards by Hans Albrecht sparked the Long Beach 49ers to a 27-11 upset win over previously unbeaten San Diego State for the Pacific Coast Athletic Association championship Friday night.

The 49ers, ranked 10th in the UPI small college poll, went into the game as much as three touchdown underdogs against the Aztecs who were tied for 14th in the major college rankings. San Diego was 9-0 for the season and had won the last 21 games in a row.

But the runs by Kirby and Albrecht plus three interceptions by Jeff Severson lifted the 49ers to their first win over San Diego since 1965. The victory gave Long Beach an 8-2 season mark and a bid to the Pasadena Bowl Dec. 19 to meet Missouri Valley Conference champion Louisville.

The Aztecs scored first, driving to the Long Beach 21 before stalling. Al Limaheli came in to kick a 37-yard field goal, giving the Aztecs a 3-0 lead.

But the 49ers bounced back gains.

"It will mean better competition because more owners and drivers will have an opportunity to be competitive at a much reduced cost," William France Sr., NASCAR president, said at Jacksonville, Fla., Friday. "It should also open the door for more sponsorship by companies outside the automotive field."

Matthew S. McLaughlin, sales vice president for Ford, made the unexpected announcement Friday, saying the company was ending its multi-million-dollar racing program "effectively immediately."

The announcement came less than a week after Chrysler drastically cut its racing program for next year, trimming its four-car Dodge team and two-Plymouth team to one Dodge and one Plymouth for the 1971 NASCAR Grand National stock car season.

American Motors abandoned all racing except for a two-car Trans-Am entry next season and General Motors hasn't competed openly in racing for two years.

France said manufacturers have pulled out in the past, "but our sport has continued to prosper and grow."

Jim Bouton Starts Suit

NEW YORK (AP) — Former Yankee pitcher James Bouton and writer Leonard Schechter brought suit Friday to stop the paperback publication of their book, "Ball Four."

In an affidavit, Schechter said he and Bouton had been promised a one year delay before the soft cover edition of their book was published. The hardcover edition, published in June, yields higher royalties for the authors.

Schechter said he had learned World Publishing Co. had sold paperback rights to Dell Publishing Co. and claimed Dell planned to publish it in paperback within the year period.

The two companies were named as defendants in the suit. Supreme Court Justice James J. Leff signed a showcause order returnable Nov. 25.

Sport Briefs

Tensi on Move List

DENVER (UPI)—The Denver Broncos of the National Football League announced Friday that quarterback Steve Tensi has been placed on the move list because of a shoulder injury.

Fails to Appear

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (UPI)—Heavyweight boxer Jerry Quarry failed to appear before the California State Athletic Commission Friday to attempt to get his suspension by the state lifted.

49ers Tapped Top Selection

NEW YORK (AP) — Back will be all but wrapped up Sunday in the ball game after a day by San Francisco's 49ers. The 49ers, two games ahead of the Los Angeles Rams, meet the Western Division race in the tougher opponent in Detroit, National Football Conference while their West Coast neighbors take on Atlanta. But the 49ers will win the Rams will lose. Here are this week's picks, all games Sunday unless otherwise noted:

Code Word at State: Solid

By IRA FUSELDT

NEW PALTZ

"Solid" has been the code word for State University wrestling team members and squad records ever since Athletic Director Joe Owens instituted the grappling game here in 1966. Owens has handed over the coaching reins to assistant Jimmy Valentine for the '70-'71 season, but nothing in the Hawk forecast indicates that they'll be anything but solid again this year.

Led by NAIA District 31 118 pound champ, Scott Hammond, and undefeated dual meet performers, Gary Fesefeldt and Steve LoTurco, New Paltz should have no problem in at least matching a 6-4 mark of last year.

Hawk teams are 26-13 since 1966.

Hammond was 9-1 with one pin going into the NAIA tourney in New Jersey, then went all the way in his class to take that event. He's only a sophomore, from Wantagh, Long Island.

Fesefeldt is a 177 pound terror from Massapequa. A junior, Gary lodged eight wins without a defeat including three pins. LoTurco at 134 was 5-0, also had three pins, and comes from Wilton, Conn.

Valentine, in his third year at New Paltz, figures freshman Bob Frazier of Fillmore to be the man to replace four year star Jim Longo at 123 pounds. Former Suffolk CCC standout Dennis O'Alessandro will go at 142. Bruce Hartjen at 150. Mark Ellison at 158. Dave Premore at 167, transfer Ray Kelly or Ed Fernbach at 190, and either Steve Keene or Gary McClure at heavyweight.

Ready to be called on as second line help are freshmen Frank Ford, Paul Seltzer, Ted Cook, Paul Attman, Phil Tumbarello, and Floyd Hall, soph Jim Tremper and juniors Vince

Leone, Rod Bernard, and Bill Mirabello.

Besides Longo, missing from the Hawks are the graduated Craig Christensen and Ken Neslund, and Eytan Cotositz, who is studying in Israel.

Valentine feels that New Paltz will at least "do about the same" in dual meets, and "barring injuries will move up in the State." New Paltz was ninth last year.

The season opens Dec. 1 at Herbert H. Lehman of the Bronx.

The schedule:

Date	Opponent	Place
Dec. 5	Lehman	Away
8	Adelphi	Home
9	Sethon Hall	Away
12	Potsdam	Away
Jan. 5	Oneonta	Home
6	Plattsburgh	Home
13	Southampton	Away
Feb. 10	Marist	Home
17	Albany	Away

division title. But this is the year. The Lions should be down after losing to Minnesota last week.

Atlanta 24, Los Angeles 21—Two weeks ago the Rams had to rally to tie the Falcons 10-10 and last week they were blasted by the New York Jets 31-20. The defensive unit is showing signs of its age, and Atlanta should be able to exploit what the Jets showed them.

Minnesota 35, Green Bay 24—The Vikings only loss in nine games was in an early season meeting with the Packers. But it would be difficult to imagine a club as strong as Minnesota losing to any opponent twice.

Oakland 28, San Diego 27—George Blanda may not be able to get the Raiders off the hook a fifth week in succession, but it does figure to be Daryle Lamonica's turn to grab a headline in this meeting in the American Conference's tough Western Division.

Kansas City 31, St. Louis 24—The Chiefs' offense may be ready to roll under the guidance of Len Dawson, and the defense is strong enough to shut down the Cardinals' ground-oriented attack revolving around MacArthur Lane.

Washington 34, Dallas 24—Both still in Eastern race behind Cardinals and Giants. Redskins, however, are clicking on offense. The Cowboys just aren't clicking.

Baltimore 28, Miami 21—The Dolphins should give the Colts more trouble than they did in a 35-0 loss earlier in the season. But the Baltimore defense is made of sterner stuff than Miami's.

Cleveland 42, Houston 21—The Browns aren't exactly terrors, but then Wally Lemm's quitting the Oilers for some reason. Even Charley Johnson's return at quarterback hasn't braked the skid.

Cincinnati 27, Pittsburgh 14—How Coach Paul Brown continues to pull off surprises for the Bengals is a constant amazement. But his play calling's been pretty good. It's a good time to stick with him.

Denver 17, New Orleans 10—The Broncos are slipping, but Floyd Little is No. 1 in the American Conference in rushing and should be able to run for daylight against the Saints.

Chicago 31, Buffalo 14—The Bills have a hot passing combination in Dennis Shaw to Marlin Briscoe, but are injury-riddled. The Bears gave Green Bay a tussle last week before succumbing.

New York Jets 34, Boston 10—The Jets' Al Woodall, Joe Namath's quarterback substitute, apparently has found himself. Joe Kapp still is looking

MONDAY
New York Giants 37, Philadelphia 20—The Giants have the most versatile back in the NFL—Ron Johnson—and the go fostered by six straight victories. The Eagles haven't won that he'd like to do graduate work in physics.

Riehl: Good Both Ways

ITHACA, N.Y. (AP) — Dave Riehl, a sophomore at Ithaca College, has two averages that put him heads above the average student or athlete.

There's the 1.46 goals he allowed per game as the starting goalie for the varsity soccer team. And the 3.96 grade point average out of a possible 4.0 he has attained while majoring in physics.

"Someday," a teammate said, "he's going to out-think a sure-fire goal right out of the net."

"Dave is the one type of person you'd like to build a team around," said varsity coach Forbes Keith. "He is totally dedicated to the game, is very aggressive, and never stops trying to find ways to improve himself."

Keith sees Riehl as a player who never complains. "I've seen him with some nasty bruises and bumps, but he doesn't let them affect his play in the least. He's almost fearless in that net, and his play this year was superb." Keith

Ithaca won six of its last eight games this season to finish 7-6. One of the losses was a 2-1 squeaker against undefeated Hartwick, the nation's second ranked team. Riehl made 18 saves and stopped Hartwick's All-American Alex Papadakis on a penalty shot in the game that almost became the state's biggest season upset.

Riehl, of Colton, N.Y., won four letters each in soccer and baseball and three in basketball at Colton-Pierrepont Central School. He was an All-League choice in each sport.

He says he picked Ithaca College because of its programs in science, music and sports. "The Physics Department" is tops, and the soccer has been better than I expected," he said. As the starting freshman goalie, Riehl allowed only 0.96 goals per game—less than this year's average in varsity play. But this season he had two shutouts and set a school record with 29 saves against Brockport.

What's the secret of good grades and good goalkeeping? "You have to know how to study," Riehl said. "What you have to do is give up those times when you sit around and do nothing but talk . . . Every hour I have is taken up with studies and sports." He added, "It's up after the season is over."

Two more seasons of soccer and two and one-half years of study stand between Riehl and graduation. After that, he says, he'd like to do graduate work in physics.

Bowling Scores Kelder Blasts 710

KINGSTON The 710 put Kelder behind fourth place Don Van Kuren's 717 series. The top three remained George Glaser, 781, 631; Jim Petersen, 608; Bob Smith, 639; Dan McGrane, 629; Bob Coisson, 640; Jack Ferraro, 618; Joe Fautz, 603; Charles Manfro Jr., 640; and Larry Petersen, 248-611.

Slamming games of 234-221-255, Ernie Kelder moved into fifth place on the big board of area bowling with a 710-triple.

Rolling in the Invitational Classic, Kelder's total paced his team, Hunter Mt. Ski Bowl to a resounding 3136 for the night. score for three games was a resounding 680. Other ranking results included: Bill Norieka, 605; Joe McGrane, 641; Joe Wilson, 604; Jim Amendola, 631; Jim Petersen, 608; Bob Smith, 639; Dan McGrane, 629; Bob Coisson, 640; Jack Ferraro, 618; Joe Fautz, 603; Charles Manfro Jr., 640; and Larry Petersen, 248-611.

BETTY MURRAY, EVELYN WILBER, and LILLION WEATHERLY were the standouts in the Monday Night Women's Junior Major League. Murray topped 533 sticks to grab the number one triple. Wilber was the ace in the solo category with 209 while Weatherly was just nine pins behind her.

CAMILLA TOMPKINS' 223-539 was number one in the Sawyer Women's Bowling League. Steven's Liquorettes registered 812-2215 to head the teams.

CHARLOTTE MARRITT was Peterson had the high single, the leading Friendship Kegler 549, and Dennis Ferraro racked with scores of 201-544. JEANNE up the best single, 235.

Simon Scores 51 Markers

KINGSTON Jim Chick added 12 points Herman Simon, who has been for the Stone Dock quintet burning the nets in the Kings- while Bruce Jerry connected ton YMCA at about a 35-point for 13.

In other contests, Spartan's with a 51-point splurge as the Five nipped Jensen's Raiders Maroons buried Stone Dock, by a 48-47 margin. Spartan's 91-60. John Royal fired in 20 led 35-30 at the end of three quarters. However, Jensen's, Lindsay hit 15 markers for the losers.

The Maroons hit 34 markers in the first half and then blasted for 57 more in the second period. Simon connected on 18 field goals and 15 foul points for his total. Royal hit nine field goals and two foul points for his total.

BARBARA BARNES cut down 509 pins to give her triple honors in the Early Birds League. LUCILLE CORRADO laced a 211 solo followed by HELEN TOMPKINS' 205. Team highs were 793 by Alpine and 2342 by Bridge Circle.

HELEN RECK rode above the other New Dope rollers with 191-491. Schallers had the team highs of 603-1706.

Les Bingham Dies in Miami

MIAMI (UPI)—Les Bingham, special assistant to Coach Don Shula of Miami Dolphins, died in his sleep Friday of an apparent heart attack at the age of 44.

Bingham had been with the Dolphins since the club was formed in 1966. He collapsed on the sidelines of the Orange Bowl during Miami's 27-24 win over the Denver Broncos last Dec. 7.

When he played as a middle guard, "Bing" tipped the scales at nearly 300 pounds. He was ordered on a strict diet after his collapse during the Denver game.

Bingham was a native of MacKenzie, Tenn., and attended the University of Illinois. He was the third round draft choice of the Detroit Lions in 1948 and went on to become one of pro football's first big, quick defenders.

Bingham is survived by his widow, Betty, and a son, Les III.

Selwood Sidelined

MONTREAL (UPI)—A back injury will sideline Toronto defenseman Brad Selwood for at least two weeks. Originally, it was feared when he crashed into a goal post during Thursday night's game against the Canadiens that he had broken his back.

Revenge Bowls Head FB Slate

All sorts of post-season invitations will be flying through the air today but two of the games highlighting the day's collegiate action could be dubbed "Revenge Bowls."

Ohio State's Woody Hayes wants revenge and so does Louisiana State's Charlie McClendon.

Fourth-ranked Michigan invades Hayes' lair to play No. 5 Ohio State, which wants retribution for that shocking 24-12 loss to the Wolverines a year ago.

For McClendon and his Bengals from the Bayous, a victory over second-ranked Notre Dame would be in the measure of poetic justice. Charlie Mac and his boys spent last New Year's Day at home after the Irish suddenly abandoned their no-bowl policy and went to the Cotton Bowl.

"I'm trying not to make this game any bigger than it is," McClendon says of his clash with Notre Dame, which he calls "the biggest and most talented team we have ever played."

With No. 1 Texas idle this week, Parseghian knows his Irish must hustle against LSU. "They're absolutely amazing on defense," Parseghian proclaims of the Tigers. "No one has scored a touchdown against them on the ground in 11 games."

The Michigan-Ohio State game is one of the afternoon's two nationally televised (ABC) affairs. The Southern California-UCLA battle, which this year doesn't involve much more than the Los Angeles city championship, follows.

Hayes has had his training area sealed off this week and Columbus resembles a top-seeded military base. The game between the two unbeaten Big Ten powers is for the conference championship. Ohio State has already clinched a trip to the Rose Bowl, where its Jan. 1 opponent will be Stanford, but Hayes is aching to beat "that other team," the only way he refers to Michigan.

Third-ranked Nebraska, although neither bowl trips nor national rankings are involved, Bowl, entertains Oklahoma for the Big Eight championship Saturday.

Only a handful of teams could accept bowl bids prior to this is a touchdown favorite.

RAGTIME COWBOY JOE — Carrying his guitar and dangling the gloves he used to KO Bob Foster Wednesday, world heavyweight champ Joe Frazier strolls in the downtown Detroit area Thursday. (UPI TELEPHOTO).

Can Clay Stop Joe

By MORT LAFFIN

MANHATTAN

The big question on everyone's lips at Madison Square Garden Wednesday night was: "Who's going to win, Clay or Frazier?"

And, after watching Smokin' Joe completely destroy Bob Foster, the light heavyweight champ; in less than two rounds, the question changed its form in some minds to: "Can Clay win?"

In retaining his heavyweight title, Frazier cleared the way for the "Battle of the Century" between himself and Cassius Clay—nee Muhammed Ali—some time after the first of the year.

Clay, of course, still has two stumbling blocks of his own to overcome. The first one takes the form of the Argentina Blockbuster, Oscar Bonavena. "Ringo" Bonavena, a nickname pressed when the knockout (49 seconds of the second round, because of his Beatle-style hair do, is, for the want of a better word, a bull.

But, he is a bull with one horn, his mighty right. Frazier is also a bull. But, unlike the South American champ, has two horns, a lightning left and a devastating right.

Clay will get a chance to make use of his matador-style tactics against Bonavena at the Garden on Dec. 7th. Whether or not he will get to do the same thing against Frazier will depend on the outcome of this fight, plus his running battle with his draft-evasion conviction. The Supreme Court has been ordered by the Justice Department to make a decision within 90 days on Clay's appeal.

If he is sentenced, he will be put away for five years and the big question will go unanswered.

However, the smart money in New York is betting that the impending decision will be put off until Frazier Clay can get together. The smart guys also say that the fight will be in the Garden around Feb. 1st. They all agree on that. What they don't agree on is the outcome.

Frazier's destruction of Foster was lightning fast. He hit Foster with everything but the kitchen sink. Fans watching the fight on the closed circuit television from the Cobo Hall in Detroit became even more impressed when the knockout (49 seconds of the second round, because of his Beatle-style hair do, is, for the want of a better word, a bull.

Warning to Shoplifters

From the number of shoplifters now being apprehended in area stores and turned over to police authorities for prosecution, it would seem that this is the season to engage in thievery as part of the preparations for the holidays.

Anyone tempted to shoplift is warned that store managers who were strangely sanguine about the whole business of shoplifting now have protective devices, strategic mirrors and cameras and alert personnel to carry out their "get tough" policy of bringing offenders into court.

During the pre-Christmas shopping season with a gaggle of shoppers clamoring for items, counters piled high with merchandise and sales clerks busy, pilfering apparently becomes an irresistible temptation to many people.

With the tightening of security in area stores, shoplifting no longer will become a way of life for those who have become light-fingered.

Thanksgiving—Then, Now

Thanksgiving Day is almost here again. General observance will take place on November 26. As we sit down to our turkey on this day of thanks, we should pause for a moment to visualize the first Thanksgiving of that small band of Pilgrims huddled in the forests of a bleak American wilderness on the threshold of winter. Measured by today's affluence, comfort and expectancies, their prospects were something less than hopeless. If they became ill, they died or got well. There were no health services and no medicare or Medicaid. There was no transportation. There was no handy source of supplies such as the corner supermarket. There was no benevolent board, bureau or government agency to fall back on. There were no consumer protectors. In short, there was no succor from any direction. There was only the wilderness, the Indians and a continent full of opportunities awaiting those with enough courage and initiative to face the unknown.

Upon second thought, the Pilgrims did indeed have much for which to be thankful. As we sit down to our Thanksgiving repast, we should not only give thanks, we should ask ourselves if we are worthy of the heritage that began with the Pilgrims.

Young Political Volunteers

The young concerned had a trial run in the recent election, with varying results. The most amazing thing about them was that they were not all seeking to establish a national liberal-left base for the New Politics. They were selective in their choice of candidates to support.

For instance, they rushed to give Craig Branes, 34, the muscle he put into his campaign for the Democratic nomination for the Congress seat occupied by Rep. Byron Rogers in the first Colorado District, Denver. Barnes won the nomination in the primary on the issues of peace and new national priorities. But in the general election, he lost to Republican Mike McDevitt, the Denver district attorney, law and order candidate.

In the New York senatorial election, the youth brigade went for James L. Buckley, the Conservative candidate. High school students, students at New York City commuter colleges who live at home and hold part-time jobs to help finance their education, rushed to do the chores at Buckley headquarters. Upstate, it was the students from universities that had seen widespread disruption, Cornell and Buffalo. Dissatisfied with radicals, they found in Buckley a man they could trust, and helped elect him with a three-way campaign.

Both groups are counting the days to the presidential election—"It's only 730 days until 1972"—they remind each other, and they are already planning their work for President Nixon or for his opponent. The young are not all left-liberals, as one would think from the way they flocked to Eugene McCarthy's banner in the 1968 campaign. They will give the next election color and enthusiasm, the spirit of youth.

Gerry F. Parker, 22, decided to do something about politics other than talk. Too late to enter the New Hampshire primaries, he ran as a write-in candidate for the legislature in both parties' primary. He won the Democratic nomination and election to the legislature. Gerry bridged the generation gap by hard personal electioneering.

The Maryland suburbs of Washington, D. C., provided a test of youth vote in a high school survey. It showed that youths would vote liberal, that their conservatism must wait on age. The exception was the vote given the conservative American party, and that confused the issue.

The plan to resurrect The Saturday Evening Post, as a quarterly, is welcome news. The news and picture weeklies and biweeklies do not take the place of the old Post and Collier's with their mixture of short and long fiction, interspersed with feature articles.

Peace in Our Generation

David Lawrence Says Recession, Unemployment Hurt the Party in Power

WASHINGTON — The superficialities and trivialities which have characterized so many of the comments about the outcome of the national elections two weeks ago are at last being swept aside by the fundamentals.

The Republicans didn't lose seats in the House because of the diffused rhetoric of their campaign speeches, as their critics claim, and the Democrats didn't fail to make bigger gains because their views were allegedly misrepresented by their opponents. The simple truth is that the oldest rule in politics was in effect in 1970 — the party in power was hurt because the nation was in the midst of a growing recession and rising unemployment.

The facts are coming out slowly. Factory output fell 2.3 per cent in October. This was the largest monthly decline in more than 11 years. The industrial production index of the Federal Reserve Board, which is considered one of the most accurate measures of economic activity, shows a decline last month for the seventh time this year. This was the sharpest monthly dip since August 1959.

It is conceded that half of this change was caused by the General Motors strike and the other half by over-all business sluggishness. The Federal Reserve Board, however, says that, even if the effects of the General Motors Strike were eliminated from the figures, the decline would be the most severe for any month since December 1960, when the country was in its last officially recognized recession.

Whether or not it is pleasant for the word "recession" to be used in politics, the nation actually has been experiencing a cutback in business for several months. Many of the speakers on the Republican side have been optimistically projecting that inflation would soon be curbed and that the economy would be back on its feet before long. But predictions are not as important as realities.

In another economic report, the Commerce Department has just revealed that home building increased slightly last month, with private housing starts up somewhat from September. For the latest six-month period, the average was above the previous six months but was identical to that for the comparable six months of last year.

The House of Representatives on Monday passed legislation to authorize the government to spend 1.4 billion dollars in the next three years to create jobs for the chronically unemployed and to make training available to enable them to handle the jobs. The measure has been criticized as a "make-work project that would perpetuate poverty." A somewhat similar bill, providing for a 7-billion-dollar jobs expenditure, has been passed by the Senate, and the two measures now must be reconciled.

There will be a constant emphasis by government on how to stimulate business by making funds available wherever possible. But the nation will not recover until private enterprise has been able to readjust from the damage it has suffered in the last year and a half.

The impact of higher wage scales and reduced profits on the actual operations of business has not been fully weighed. Big strikes have forced up the expenses of some of the large industries and their prices. The rising cost of goods and the failure of the Johnson and Nixon administrations to move into the inflation battle early enough to restrain wage and price increases are undoubtedly the basic causes of the recession. The economy simply hasn't been able to absorb the big wage scales and the new sales prices suddenly imposed. On top of this have come recent cuts in certain government projects which have brought more unemployment.

The whole economy was suffering many wounds at the very time that an off-year election was scheduled. As the campaign progressed, business was moving downward and lots of voters were so frightened by the uncertainties of the future that they voted against the party in power. This was the basic reason why the Republicans didn't make larger gains.

If a vast improvement in the national economy doesn't come in the years 1971 and 1972, there certainly will be a change in the administration in the next presidential election.

Sakharov, Conservative Head, Has Ideas for Freer Soviet

By RAY CROMLEY
NEA Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON (NEA) — What kind of a man, then, is Andrei Dmitriyevich Sakharov, apparent leader of the group of conservative, first-rank physical scientists now questioning publicly some of the major practices of the Soviet government? And what does he want?

Among some, he is known as father of the Soviet H-bomb. He became a member of the prestigious USSR Academy of Science at the age of 32. He is now 49. In scientific circles he is regarded as one of the great scientists of our day and, in Russia, only a notch below the famed Kapitza. He has been awarded the Order of Lenin and the Stalin Prize. He is a member of the Soviet elite and a successful, moderate man. He considers himself a dedicated socialist. He is a gradualist.

From a study of his individual writings and letters he has prepared jointly with others, his principal aim can be expressed as follows:

Greater freedom of information, of creativity and of discussion within the Soviet Union. He wants public discussion of public issues, first on a limited scale within selected circles, and gradually discussion involving the whole population.

He fears the long-range effects of a system of decision-making within Russia in which only a select few have the power to decide, plus the power to keep their actions from public view.

He believes that incompetent censorship kills the living soul of Soviet literature and social thought giving rise to stagnation, monotony and a complete absence of any fresh ideas. Indeed, Sakharov says, deep thoughts can appear only in discussion, with the presence of opposition.

But, he says, truthful information about "our" shortcomings and negative phenomena is kept secret lest it be used by "hostile propaganda." Exchange of information with foreign countries is restricted out of fear of "penetration by hostile ideology." Theoretical conceptions and practical proposals which may seem to be too bold to some are suppressed immediately without any discussion because of fear that they may "undermine the foundations."

There is obvious distrust of active persons who think critically and creatively. An end to the jamming of foreign broadcasts. Free sale of foreign books and periodicals. Unrestricted international correspondence. Independence of the nation's courts from the executive. Amnesty for political publication of complete stenographic records of political trials.

Free elections, with several candidates for each office. A multiparty system in which the Communist party would vie with competing political groups.

Restoration of the rights of all nationalities forcibly resettled under Stalin. Elimination of the nationality designation in Soviet identity cards.

Expansion of the rights and responsibilities of the Soviet Union's Supreme Soviet (Parliament) which is now largely regarded in the West as a rubber stamp body.

Greater independence for Soviet schoolteachers. The right of teachers to experiment in their teaching methods.

A wide program of assistance to the poorer areas of the world under the leadership of the United States, the USSR and other developed countries financed by a 20 per cent tax on national income. This 20 per cent tax, Sakharov believes, would automatically make it necessary for the United States and the Soviet Union to cut back on arms spending.

Agreement between the two to stop exporting military and military-economic forms of revolution and counter-revolution.

International co-operation in fighting pollution.

It is known that Sakharov and his colleagues believe that these ideas are shared "to greater or lesser extent" by a considerable portion of the Soviet intelligentsia, the advanced part of the working class and numbers of students and working youth.

But no man here is going to predict that something will come from these appeals.

Jack Anderson Says Prosecutor Says Boyle Involved In Yablonski Murder Plot

WASHINGTON — The special prosecutor investigating the Joseph Yablonski killings believes mine workers boss Tony Boyle and other top union officials were involved in the murder plot.

Yablonski was found shot to death in his Pennsylvania home along with his wife and daughter last January. The killings came three weeks after Yablonski had lost a bitter election for the union presidency. Boyle, who beat back Yablonski's challenge, has vigorously denied any connection with the slayings.

The United Mine Workers president has also denied that he even knew Silas Huddleston, the aging local union officer from Tennessee who has been indicated in connection with the triple killing.

Nevertheless, Assistant District Attorney Richard Sprague told my associate Brit Hume that state and federal investigators have a detailed theory of the murders reaching high into the union hierarchy.

"I have some specifics," he said. "I have a pretty good idea of the chain of command."

Does it reach the union's "highest levels?" he was asked. "It does, in my opinion," he said.

Questioned about the possibility that the conspirators might deliberately have kept Boyle out of the alleged plot to protect him, Sprague replied: "I do not think he was out of it."

Mysterious $20,000
Sprague said also that a mysterious $20,000 in cash, delivered last year from national UMW headquarters to union officials in Tennessee supposedly for "research and information," was "involved in the investigation."

Three Cleveland men, one of their wives, and Huddleston have been charged with the murders. They will be tried separately some time after the first of the year.

Sprague said the government hopes the trials, in which the death penalty will be sought for each defendant, will produce more information on the hiring of the alleged killers.

"I personally feel," he said, "that for the trials to be successful we have to find who hired them in the first place." He added that he believed Huddleston knew more than the other defendants about the origin of the alleged conspiracy.

At present, he said, no trial dates have been set. The main reason for the delay is that an appellate court in Ohio has neglected to act on the appeals of lower court rulings ordering the extradition of three of the defendants to Pennsylvania.

In the case of one defendant, Claude Vealey, the court has declined to act on a government motion to dismiss the appeal — even though Vealey's lawyers have long since missed the 10-day deadline for responding to the motion.

Sprague said he did not anticipate any further indictments growing out of the continuing federal investigation of the murders until after the trials begin.

Behind the Headlines

Rain vs. Bomb — The Air Force's NORAD center, built to withstand a near-miss nuclear blast, has received $94,000 damage from a rainstorm. The October storm caused mud and rock slides at the hush-hush Cheyenne Mountain complex in Colorado. The Air Force has now granted a $94,000 contract to a private firm for repairs. An Air Force spokesman, asked by this column to explain the apparent contradiction in the nuclearproof NORAD installation being damaged by severe showers, said the damage wasn't internal.

Agnew's Whitelist — Shortly after the election, the politico at the Democratic National Committee were stunned to receive a call from the office of their Public Enemy No. 1, Spiro Agnew. The Vice President wanted a list of all the newly elected Democratic governors and their addresses. The politico, fearing Agnew must be up to some new political devilment, debated whether to furnish the list. Impressed by the sheer brazenness of the request, however, they provided the names and addresses to a messenger from Agnew's office. A spokesman for Agnew explained to this column that the Vice President is merely compiling his Christmas card mailing list and wants to mend a few yuletide fences with the men he campaigned against.

Twisted Words — A grave error in a Supreme Court transcript, unfairly putting Chief Justice Warren Burger in the position of prejudging a famous criminal case, has been discovered by this column. Copies of the transcript have been circulated in court circles, making the Chief Justice a subject of sharp criticism. The transcript quotes Burger, in a case involving black militants, as stating: "Those are serious crimes that they are guilty of."

Since the suspects haven't been convicted, the statement would rank as a gigantic goof by the nation's highest jurist. Rather than depend on the transcript alone, this column located a tape recording of the court hearing. Burger's comment, heard clearly, was phrased, "If they are guilty" — a perfectly proper observation. As a result of our inquiries, the damning transcript is now being corrected.

Fancy Dollars — The babble of Wall Street rumors and fears of a dollar devaluation have sent U.S. officials at home and abroad up the walls with denials of impending financial disaster. The U.S. has taken pains to squelch rumors that the Bureau of Engraving is secretly printing up a new brand of dollars and that the federal government has all foreign bank accounts of American citizens under individual surveillance. Another report, with perhaps more meat to it, is that strong restrictions are planned to prevent American citizens from opening new foreign bank accounts.

Vital Lesson of the '30s

Depression—But U.S. Survives

By DON OAKLEY
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

Thousands of young people wandering aimlessly about the country troops dispersing angry citizens who had marched on Washington — police and vigilantes viciously attacking demonstrators — a judge dragged from his courtroom, beaten and nearly lynched — the nation's farmland ruined, with tens of thousands of families displaced and starving —

Is this a picture of America in the 1930s when, as many warn us, our social and environmental problems will overwhelm us and plunge us into revolution and chaos?

Indeed not. This was America in the 1930s in the depths of the Great Depression.

The wandering youths were only part of the vast army of the unemployed, estimated at some 16 million at its worst, or possibly every third worker. The marchers on Washington were World War I veterans demanding long delayed bonuses. The vigilantes appeared — during strikes on the San Francisco waterfront and in California's lush fruit and vegetable valleys. The judge was nearly lynched in Le Mars, Iowa, by debt-ridden farmers whose mortgages were being foreclosed. The ruined farmland was in the great Dust Bowl, victim both of misuse of the land and a prolonged drought which added to all the other woes of a nation hanging on the edge of economic and spiritual disintegration.

The story of the Stock Market Crash and the Great Depression has been told in absorbing detail in a recent book, "A Nation in Torment," by Edward Ross Ellis. For 33 years a reporter and feature writer for wire services, Scripps-Howard and various newspapers, Ellis calls the Depression the nation's worst crisis, its most rending trauma since the Civil War.

His book almost proves that understatement. The crisis from 1861 to 1865 saw a nation split into two geographical halves warring against each other. But the crisis from 1929 to 1943, when war production absorbed the last of the Depression unemployed, saw a nation shattered from top to bottom, stunned, beaten down — in torment: its Gross National Product plummeting from $80 billion to $40 billion to bring its economic system close to collapse, and with it, its system of democratic government.

Even of those who lived through the Depression, "A Nation in Torment" tells an unbelievable story of heart-rending personal and national tragedy — of breadlines and apple sellers and Okies, of fantastic panaceas like Technocracy and the Townsend Plan of demagogues like Father Coughlin and Huey Long (whom Ellis calls "America's first genuine dictator"), of the new Deal and NRA and WPA and CCC, of a single dust storm blowing 50 million tons of topsoil from the prairies into the Atlantic, of panic-stricken bankers pleading with Franklin D. Roosevelt to take them over — and of these same men later castigating FDR as a Fascist and/or Communist.

For those who were fortunate enough not to have had to live through it, especially those who think things are so bad we need a revolution today, the story of the Depression should be required reading.

"A successful revolution is one in which power shifts from one group to another," writes Ellis. "The New Deal brought about a social revolution, for power shifted from Wall Street to Washington, from capitalists to other classes of Americans. But for the most part it was a peaceful and bloodless revolution."

TEEN SCENE: Tiny Alice and the Big Dumpling

By LEI

Alice Playten looks pretty when she's angry, and it's a good thing, because she's cross quite often these days. After appearing in featured roles since she was eleven years old in such productions as the Metropolitan Opera, "Hello Dolly," "Gypsy," and "Henry, Sweet Henry," Alice, at 23, is a household word. Not as a result of her outstanding stage work, but because of a minute-long bedroom scene. On television!

She played a honeymooning bride who loved her cook-book more than her husband, and almost killed the poor fellow by cooking him a giant dumpling. . . . See NOW you remember her! That's Alice Playten all right, the girl in the Alka-Seltzer commercial. Critics raved about her acting in "Hello, Dolly," for three years, and her powerful voice brought down the house singing in "Henry, Sweet Henry," but people remember her as the girl who cooked the giant dumpling in the commercial. Well, that's show biz.

Alice is one of the new breed of actresses who bases her beauty on her individuality. A tiny four-foot-ten, she can still play the part of girls ten years younger than she is. As a raving beauty, she'd fall flatter than a bride's first cake—if her nose weren't so short and she were a foot taller, she'd look like Barbra Streisand. Alice emphasizes her good points—her wealth of glossy, light-brown hair and the humor and compassion in her brown eyes.

She regards her tiny build as an asset, and she tries to keep it as tiny in width as in height by watching her diet. She has to, anyway—at six years old, it was discovered she had diabetes. She sees the disease as an advantage—since diabetics are forced to watch against careless diet and fatigue, she reasons that they ought to be healthier than other people. It seems to work for Alice, but then, almost everything seems to work for Alice.

Her first role, in the Metropolitan Opera production of "Wozzeck" twelve years ago actually called for a boy. A boy with a dynamic, powerful voice. There wasn't one around, so Alice got the role. She sang at the old Palace Theater in New York City, which earned her a distinction—she is the only living actress to ever perform at both the old Met Opera and the Palace. Only one other actress ever appeared in both, and she too was small, dark, and full of sound, was the late Judy Garland.

The dumpling earned Alice a Clio Award—the Oscar of the commercial world. She wasn't present to receive the award—not because she "upstaged" the event, but because, through an oversight, she wasn't invited. If she had been blasé about the award, though, it would have been understandable—five years ago she almost won Broadway's Tony award for her role in "Henry, Sweet Henry."

The dumpling also resulted in a chance to appear in a featured role in a Broadway musical last fall, but she turned it down for a co-starring role in the off-Broadway performance of "The Last Sweet Days of Isaac." It was a wise choice—the play is still running, and the people who come to see the "Alka-Seltzer girl" come away more in need of compose. She chose the play because it has something to say, while the musical was pure fluff. Alice knew well how easy it is for a great performance to get lost in a giant Broadway musical—she'd been getting lost in them for over half her life.

Messages—whether for Alka-Seltzer or peace—are important to Alice. She is active in the causes of the ecology and peace, and her bright, pear-shaped face has appeared in several commercials besides the best-known—commercial for political candidates she believed in and for clean air. In addition to her acting and involvement, Alice also finds time to do therapy work with youngsters crippled by diabetes.

Since conventional clothes—and unconventional ones—don't come in her sub-junior size, Alice not only sews her own clothes, but also many of her costumes. She likes her skirts either very short (and, on her, that is very short) or very long (which would be short on anyone else).

For Alice, success doesn't mean awards; or being recognized on the street, or receiving juicy offers for starring roles in next season's Broadway plays. Success means making the most of what life provides, and returning as much as she can to life. Being a good Alice Playten means more to her than being a successful actress, although, of course, she'd like to be both. And then, there is the impossible dream she may never achieve . . .

She'd like to have people forget about the dumpling. And the poached oysters. Yeeech.

Youth in the News—Academic Honors

Scholarship awards are high on the lists of achievements for youth in the News this week.

The Saugerties Council 4536, Knights of Columbus, recently awarded a $300 scholarship to Loraine Wagner, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert E. Wagner of Route 4, Saugerties. She is a student at John A. Coleman High School.

Patricia A. Boyd of Kingston was the recipient of a Texaco Teaching Fellowship at the recent Ithaca College Honors Convocation.

Miss Boyd, a senior chemistry major at Ithaca, is a graduate of Kingston High School. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ambrose J. Boyd of 18 Overlook Drive, Kingston.

Holly Seitz, a junior at State University of New York at Albany has been selected as co-chairman of the History Student Association faculty evaluation committee. Findings of this important committee are used in part for decisions on faculty tenure and promotion by the history department and the university committee.

Holly, a dean's list student, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Seitz of 85 Washington Avenue, Kingston. A Kingston High School graduate, she is majoring in history at SUNY, Albany, with a minor concentration in anthropology and education.

Claudia A. Randel, a freshman at Skidmore College was a member of the winning relay team in swimming competition in an intercollegiate sportsday at Saratoga Springs recently. The Skidmore team took first place in competition with two colleges.

Claudia, a graduate of Kingston High School, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Victor I. Randel, Ringtop Road, Kingston.

Citadel Cadet Larry Flowers, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry A. Flowers, 61½ Downs Street, Kingston, has been named by The Citadel to the 1971 Edition of Who's Who Among Students in American Universities and Colleges.

Cadet Flowers is a senior at the military college where he holds the rank of captain with in the South Carolina Corps of Cadets and serves as physical training officer for the brigade staff.

A physical education major, he is a member of the Round Table, an intellectual discussion group; the Physical Education Majors Club and the 1970-71 Honor Committee, one of the highest honors at The Citadel. He is enrolled in the Air Force ROTC program.

Carol Andrea Stein, daughter of Alan Stein of 44 Ponckhockie Street, Kingston, has been admitted to the Michigan State University Honors college during the fall term. Membership in the Honors College is for students in the top five per cent of the entire student body. The college is designed to give superior undergraduates an opportunity to develop intellectually according to their own interests and goals. Miss Stein is a sophomore in communications at Michigan State.

Twelve Kingston area residents are among 1,412 freshmen and transfer students enrolled at the State University College at Potsdam. They are:

Diane Battaglia, RD 5, 40

Apple Hill Road, Kingston; Gerit Bracklow, Route 1, Box 47a, Accord; Michael Coffey, Box 39, Connelly; James Dolan, 191 Elmendorf Street, Kingston; Allen Hoey, RD 4, Box 231, Saugerties; Anthony Martino, 49 Madison Avenue, Kingston; Lawrence Miller, 32 Nixon Avenue, Woodstock; Carol Nissen, DuBois Road, Ashokan; Alexander Nunes, Box 85, Esopus; Susan Scherrer, Box 3, Boiceville; Regina Sheehan, Route 1, Box 279, Saugerties; and Lana Slater, RD 2, Box 213-A, Accord.

New Paltz Girl Honored by State

Barbara Ann Neumann, a freshman at the State University College at New Paltz, was a guest of honor at a dinner at Grossinger's recently.

She represented the 24 New York State Recipients of the 1970 Jenkins Memorial Scholarship. Dr. Rodney Jones of the Department of Education at SUNY, New Paltz, attended as faculty advisor with Miss Neumann.

The banquet was the final convocation of the 1970 Convention of the New York State Congress of Parents and Teachers held at Grossinger's earlier this month. Speakers at the dinner included Dr. Ewald B. Nyquist, New York State Commissioner of Education and President of the University of the State of New York; Mrs. Leon S. Price, president of the National P-T-A; and Mrs. Oscar Willett, president of the New York State P-T-A. Also present were Emanuel Kafka, president of the New York State Teachers' Association, and Mrs. Curtis F. Bigley, chairman of the New York State P-T-A Jenkins Memorial Scholarship.

The Jenkins Memorial Scholarships are awarded each year to high school graduates of exceptional ability who are enrolled in four-year colleges in the State University of New York and who plan to enter the teaching profession. The awards are made on the basis of academic achievement, extracurricular activities, and personal interviews.

Miss Neumann graduated valedictorian of the Class of 1970 of New Paltz High School. In her senior year of high school she served as editor-in-chief of the Huguenot yearbook, was a member of the National Honor Society, and treasurer of the Girls' Athletic Association. She teaches Sunday school at the Redeemer Lutheran Church. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Carl C. Neumann of 47 DuBois Road, New Paltz.

May Wedding Being Planned

PEGGY MILLER

Mr. and Mrs. Leo Miller of 233 West Chestnut Street, Kingston, announce the engagement of their daughter, Peggy, to Robert V. Decker, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harvey W. Decker of 72 Kingston Street.

The bride-elect is a graduate of Kingston High School and is employed by Newcombe Oil Company.

Her fiancé, an alumnus of Kingston High School and State University of New York at Delhi, is employed by Quality Maple Block Company.

Colvin-Meyer Engagement

Mrs. Charles Orr Sr. of Wells, New York, announces the engagement of Marcia Ellen Colvin to Wayne Richard Meyer, son of Mr. and Mrs. William J. Meyer of St. Remy.

Miss Colvin is a graduate of Wells High School and is employed by Gloversville Hospital, Gloversville.

Mr. Meyer is a graduate of Kingston High School and served in the U.S. Navy Seabees with two tours of duty in Vietnam. He is now employed by the Central Hudson Gas and Electric Co., Elting's Corner.

A fall wedding is planned.

Lynn Marie Sisco Weds S. M. McGahan

St. Joseph's Church in Kingston was the setting for the wedding of Miss Lynn Marie Sisco, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James J. Sisco of 72 Harwich Street, Kingston, and Steven M. McGahan, son of Mr. and Mrs. William McGahan, RD 4, Box 552, Kingston, on Saturday, Nov. 14.

The Rev. Alfred Rizzuto officiated at the double ring ceremony. James Sweeney, organist, provided traditional wedding selections. Pompons decorated the altar.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a gown of sateau, fashioned with an empire bodice and long full sleeves cuffed at the wrists. Appliques of pea d'ange lace trimmed the bodice and skirt hem and edged the chapel length train. She wore a stylized headpiece to which was shirred her silk illusion veil edged with matching lace. She carried a cascade bouquet of white roses and white gladiolus tied with white satin ribbon.

Miss Mary Ellen Bruck of was maid of honor in a gown with a high neckline and long full sleeves. She wore a wasist-length bolero of royal blue velvet. Floral braid in high neckline and the waistline was encircled with velvet ribbon. A Dior bow served as her headpiece and she carried a cascade bouquet of yellow carnations and yellow satin bow.

Miss Ruth Ann Bruno, cousin of the bride, 50 East Chester Street Extension, Kingston, served as bridesmaid and Miss Cynthia Benicase of Harwich Street, Kingston, was flower girl. Their gowns and headpieces were identical in styling to that worn by the honor attendant. Miss Bruno carried a cascade bouquet of yellow gladiolus tied with a yellow satin bow. Miss Benicase carried a colonial bouquet of yellow sweetheart roses and yellow satin bow.

Edward Donnelly of Kingston was best man. Ushers were Gary Bigler, Robert Lindhorst, and Robert Astalas, all of Kingston.

A reception for 110 guests was held at Walnut Grove Restaurant in Kingston.

For her wedding tour through the southern states, the bride selected a rust-colored pants suit with brown accessories and a cymbidium orchid corsage.

The bride is a 1969 graduate of Kingston High School. Her husband, an alumnus of Kingston High School, is employed at State University College at New Paltz.

Mr. and Mrs. McGahan will reside at Kingston.

Doing the Right Thing

A Bride From Overseas

Dear Mrs. Post: My son plans to marry a girl from Saigon, who will arrive here, alone, a few days before the wedding. My husband and I are giving the wedding entirely, since she will be alone in a strange country. We plan to have it just as we would were she our daughter, and have only one question. How do we word the invitations? Must they be in her parents' names, with our address for the R.S.V.P., or may we issue them in our name? — Mrs. J. D.

Dear Mrs. D.: Under the circumstances, you may issue them in your name. The wording is: Mr. and Mrs. John Doe request the honour of your presence at the marriage of Miss _____ to their son, John Doe, Jr., etc.

I think it is great that you are planning the wedding for your son and his bride, and wish you the best of luck.

Widows Use Their Husbands' Names

Dear Mrs. Post: There seems to be a widespread impression that a widow is no longer entitled to use, or rather be addressed by her husband's first name. I don't know how this ridiculous notion started, but I hope you can do something to correct it. It is painful enough to become a widow without receiving these rather brutal reminders of one's changed status. I am really considering protesting to such people that have addressed her as if I were divorced instead of widowed.—Mrs. H. B.

To make your wedding day the happy memorable occasion you want it to be, my booklet "Your Guide to Formal Wedding Procedure" is just what you need. To get a copy, send thirty-five cents in coins to cover booklet and mailing expenses, to Elizabeth L. Post, in care of this newspaper, and don't forget to include your name and address.

Awarded Traineeship

Miss Sharon L. Westfall, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Westfall of 1067 Codwise Street, Kingston, has been awarded a traineeship by U.S. Rehabilitation Services Administration. This award enables her to pursue a Master of Science degree in Rehabilitation Counseling at State University of New York at Albany.

Miss Westfall received a Bachelor of Arts degree from SUNY at Albany in June, and was graduated from Kingston High School in 1966.

Hints from Heloise

Dear Heloise:

I really stumbled onto a bright idea recently. I have a back porch about 6'x8' and wanted to use it as a sewing room.

So I painted the walls and put down some inexpensive indoor-outdoor carpeting on the floor. I also decided to cover the entire south wall with drapes made of sailcloth because the window on this wall was in very bad shape.

The problem came when I started to put up the drapery brackets. I live alone and had no one to help.

Well not to be outdone, I took two little blocks of wood, then I took three small strips of "adhesive mounting tape" (it's a kind of tape that is rather thick and spongy looking and is very sticky on both sides), and stuck the blocks to the wall with this. In this way, they were held in place and I was able to hammer the nails in very easily.

Then I put this tape on the back of the brackets, stuck them in place and hammered the little nails in these. I was able to put my rod up by myself all in less than fifteen minutes.

This little sticky tape is so handy for so many jobs around the house, especially when you live alone and a little bit of tape goes a long, long way.

When I think of how many times I have "lost my temper" trying to extend my curtain rods beyond the window casing, I really feel smart now.

Mrs. M.B. Where there's a will, there's a way — and, gal, I've got to hand it to you, no one could label you a quitter. Congratulations on a job well done.

flower arrangement.

With the vase in use, I had no place for my artificial flowers until I happened to spy an empty facial tissue boutique box. I put the flowers in it and they looked so pretty that I put them on my dresser.

I plan on using other colors for arrangements in other rooms. The "marble look" of these boxes goes so very well with my Italian furniture.

Mrs. Kathy Kren

Dear Heloise: If you use correction fluid at the office, you don't have to shake it every time you go to use it if, when you finish with it, you lay the bottle on its side rather than sit the bottle upright.

Picking it up "shakes" it enough.

Nan Bracker

Good idea, but just make sure that you screw that little cap on real tight or the results could be CATASTROPHIC!

Thanksgiving Ball Set for Tonight

Tickets for the 34th annual Thanksgiving Stage Show and Ball are still available for tonight at the door. The Ball is scheduled for 9 p.m. at Ahavath Israel, the gala's sponsors, 100 Lucas Avenue.

Entertaining will be the delightful comedian, Van Harris, whose direct manner and vibrant humor are impressively original and amusing.

Sharing the all-star bill will be Daniel and Dimitri, two continental charmers with excellent voices, a varied repertoire and a definite artistry with a guitar.

Pete Ferraro and his band will provide music for dancing or listening. Refreshments, included in the price of admission, will be served. Dr. Murray Greene is chairman.

MR. AND MRS. DOUGLAS ALEXANDER of RFD, Ulster Park, are shown on the deck of the North German Lloyd Line's "M. V. Europa" upon arrival in New York from a vacation cruise to the sun-filled islands in the Caribbean.

You Name It... The Designers Are Styling It for Spring

THE NEW WORLD — RIFLES AND MOLLS. Designer Rudi Gernreich kneels next to a model wearing one of his spring 1971 safari-styled outfits. The outfit is completed by a rifle slung over the shoulder. (UPI TELEPHOTO).

IN THE TUG-OF-WAR between mini and maxi, one style appears to be emerging as a compromise solution: long skirts with slits that provide at least an occasional glimpse of otherwise hidden knees. The trend is characterized by these two styles shown by Originals in the first spring '71 fashion opening recently in New York. (UPI TELEPHOTO).

What Fashion Reporters Have to Say About Trends

By PATRICIA McCORMACK

NEW YORK (UPI) — A fashion firm that follows the dictates of customers via continuous computerized monitoring is keeping hemlines over the knee, at the midcalf and sometimes down to the floor for spring.

The obedience to computer reports on customer tastes was reflected throughout the spring collection of the Joan Leslie Fashions Inc., designed by Kasper.

John Pomerantz, president of the Joan Leslie division of Leslie Fay Inc., a fashion conglomerate with nine subdivisions, said the midcalf and below-the-knee hem lengths were also in the Kasper designated fall and winter offerings.

Pomerantz said in its price range, $5 to $225, the firm is the biggest in the market.

For spring, the Kasper collection includes late afternoon and evening dresses that are high-necked, long-sleeved, floor sweeping dresses reminiscent of styles worn by women at the turn of the century. In other fashion shows during the last several weeks, the old fashioned style made new fashioned cropped up repeatedly.

Fashion accents with these and other country girl outfits included white boots with floral patterns applied on them, shoulderwide straw hats — and more.

Some had skull-hugging head covering adorned with strings of colored beads and chains of sparkling ornaments.

By ANN HENCKEN
AP Fashion Editor

NEW YORK (AP) — Guns have entered the fashion world.

Designer Rudi Gernreich didn't crack a smile as his models came out recently in buff knit pants-outfits, toy shoulder rifles, GI dog tags, goggles and caps. No one else smiled either.

Finally, Gernreich said, "At this point you probably all think that I'm a member of the silent majority," and the audience laughed.

If there was puzzlement, at first, over Gernreich's militant look, perhaps it was because so many designers are doing old world clothes with ruffles and flounces for spring.

Not Gernreich. As always, his clothes are pared down for action.

This militant fashion mood is meant to reflect the times in general, he said.

However, when one model saw the collection for Harmon knitwear — $35-$85 — she commented, "Oh, you're doing a back to school collection!"

Gernreich said, "Some people will say that I'm for war. I'm not... I certainly hope that guns won't become chic..."

"I do know that clothes must relate, and designers today are totally funkling out. In a way, I'm saying to them, 'Don't you know what's going on?'"

Dear Abby

Everybody's in Love

(© 1970 by Chicago Tribune - N. Y. News Syndicate, Inc.)

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: I lost my husband three years ago and was left with three daughters who are now 13, 14 and 16. I met a man who was in the same boat. His wife died and left him with three sons, 10, 16, and 17. We had so much in common, this man and I, that we started seeing each other, fell in love, and within six months we were married. We pooled our resources and live in a lovely old, but large home, and everything seemed perfect, but it was too good to be true.

I suppose you are ahead of the story because the inevitable happened. Our eldest daughter and sons like each other too much. We don't dare leave them alone any more. I am going out of my mind with worry. I suppose if a genuine "love" developed between his sons and my daughter nothing would be wrong with it, but I'm afraid there has already been too much intimacy. Please suggest something.

WORRIED MOM
DEAR MOM: I presume the girls have been told the facts of life, and the boys too. Under the circumstances, since you feel there is cause for concern, if possible send the girls or the boys to boarding school, relatives or friends. You can't keep them separated forever, of course, but the temptation will be reduced considerably, at least until they've had a chance to meet others and grow up.

DEAR ABBY: I have a serious problem. My husband and I have recently become quite friendly with some neighbors who are about our age—middle fifties.

While playing cards, the man started playing "footsies" with me. I moved my foot and pretended not to notice. Then he grew bolder and started "finding" my foot no matter where I move it.

I finally told my husband, and instead of getting mad, he laughed and said, "It doesn't mean anything. Forget it."

Well, I can't forget it. I have already cooled off my friendship with the wife, but the awkward part of the situation is that my husband continues to be friendly with the husband, and he can't see why we all can't be friends.

Should I tell the man's wife why I cooled the friendship? Or should I insist that my husband tell the man off? Or should I resume friendship to please my husband?

IN DOUBT
DEAR N: Don't tell the wife anything. But do tell the man that because your husband wants to be friendly with them you will give him another chance. But one wrong move and that's it!

DEAR ABBY: I am a divorcee with two small children. My ex-husband pays me no alimony as he is broke. That's why I divorced him—no support.

Right now my husband is unemployed and he has no car so he thinks I should provide him with transportation every Sunday so he can see the children. I can't see spending my Sundays chaffering him back and forth. Am I selfish?

GRIPED
DEAR GRIPED: No. Feeling as you do, tell your husband that if he wants to see the children on Sundays he will have to provide his own means of transportation. If he wants to see them, he'll find a way.

CONFIDENTIAL TO "ONLY A HOUSEWIFE." What do you mean "ONLY?" As far as I'm concerned, the job of a housewife is an executive position. In your home you are Education and Welfare, the Secretary of the Treasury, the Head of Entertainment and Public Relations, and Chairman of the House Rules Committee. And you'd have to be married to a millionaire to be paid what you're really worth.

What's your problem? You'll feel better if you get it off your chest. Write to ABBY, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Cal. 90069. For a personal reply enclose stamped, addressed envelope.

Hate to write letters? Send $1 to Abby, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Cal. 90069, for Abby's booklet, "How to Write Letters for All Occasions."

SATURDAY, NOV. 21

GENERAL TENDENCIES: You can easily find the apparel you need or whatever purchases that concern your desire for pleasure, entertainment and adornment. You also have the chance to reconcile a difference of opinion with one you would like to know better in the future. Fine day for returning social favors.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) First get health improved, then do those favors for others that you feel you owe them. Strive for continued goodwill. Find that middle of the road position in dealing with co-workers.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Ideal day to be with delightful persons you like for the pleasure that you and they enjoy. Show loved one how deep your affection is and you gain much favor. Don't neglect to pay that big bill.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Home is your best bet where entertainment is concerned and much benefit can come of this, as well as pleasing kin more. Buy whatever is necessary for the home. Make everything there more operative and efficient.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Be sure to shop early and find the articles and items you badly need for the home. Handling correspondence and transportation matters are best in the afternoon. Evening is fine for hobbies connected with good pals.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Study your financial status wisely, then plan to add to assets so that you need not worry in the future. Show that you have common sense and use it in every situation you can. Cut down on expenses.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Forget anything of an off-beat nature and get busy on what is truly acceptable. A good day to return social favors in a most gracious fashion. Try not to keep such late hours and improve health.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) You have a strong need to get personal affairs well handled now. Then you can concentrate more on business and get much done. Pals need some assistance. Show that you are willing to help them.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Attend social affair so you can get the greatest amount of pleasure and relaxation you need. Accept the finest invitations. Being exacting as to detail can bring you a wish that means much to you.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Doing whatever will make your public image more alluring is wise now. You can get your tasks performed better by using improved methods. Steer clear of large expenditures of money. Avoid those who want to con you into them.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Any new ideas you have can be put in operation quickly today so that you have greater progress in the near future. Obtain information you need from new sources. Do so tactfully.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Study whatever promises you have made and then keep them to the best of your ability. Make the right impression on others. Mate will go along with you in whatever is good right now.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Showing partners that you will be more cooperative in the future is wise at this time. Once you have reached a better agreement, enjoy the amusements you like. Spend moderately.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY... he or she will be one of those charming young people who is very lovable and is always eager to help and serve others. Be sure to direct education along social lines that are helpful to the masses, the philanthropies, or the field of entertainment. Much cooperation with others is a must. The fields of art and music are very appealing to your progeny, also. Be careful of the diet early in life.

"The Stars impel, they do not compel." What you make of your life is largely up to YOU! Carroll Righter's Individual Forecast for your sign for December is now ready. SUNDAY, NOV. 22

GENERAL TENDENCIES: Now you are able to take the best from the past and the accumulated wisdom from your experiences and are able to make it operate very well at the present. If you have any doubts about any course of action, you only need to be still for a little while and let today's astrological influences give you the answers.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) You are able to serve others well today, which has been quite difficult in the recent past. Add to goodwill you now enjoy. Plan how to make your job more efficient and profitable in the new week.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Ideal day to do some entertaining of those who have been socially gracious to you in the past. Show how much you think of them. Get that particular talent you have working properly.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Being very practical where home, job and government matters are concerned is the best way to start an uptrend. Get new ideas you have on a more practical basis, also. Make yourself available to friends tonight.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) If you attend services you enjoy, you will find solace that you need, as well as be inspired for the future. Then meet with friends for the enjoyment you desire. Show that you are a fine conversationalist.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Raising the level of your thinking will show you now have a more prosperous future. Fix your budget today so that it is more flexible. Make necessary repairs to your home.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Go after cherished desires in a most positive way and you are bound to gain them. Get dressed festively and then go out to that social affair. Getting to bed early tonight is very wise. Feel rested in the morning.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Preparing for the days ahead in the most progressive way you can envision is fine now. Meet with experts to get ideas. Ideal romantic moments can be yours with one you love. Show you have finesse.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Good day to get together with relatives and friends for a charming few hours when you can discuss mutual plans. Make sure your house is in perfect order. Do some reading.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Getting bigwigs to tell you how to become active in a new and worthwhile project is a good way to spend part of this day. Figure out a way to handle credit problem. Evening is best time for this.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Contrasting clever persons who have had much experience in business will give you a greater understanding for the future. Make as many new friends as you can. Save time for music and entertainment in the evening.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) You are able now to confer with persons who can show you how to get your visionary ideas whittled down to the practical. Your hunches are right, so be sure to follow them. Steer clear of quarrels of any kind.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Cooperate more with associates today and plan how to make your point projects more profitable. Settle any differences you may have had with others.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY... he or she will be one of those delightful young people who appears to be working on details all the time. Your progeny want to be a perfectionist. Nonetheless, there is always concentration on the big issues as well, and this combination leads to much success throughout the lifetime. However, you must teach to do more talking and be more willing to get out socially, travel more. Sports are also important early in life.

"The Stars impel, they do not compel." What you make of your life is largely up to YOU! Carroll Righter's Individual Forecast for your sign for December is now ready. Four rounds of clubs followed. East discarded the deuce of spades on the third club, but was in real trouble on the last one. He couldn't afford to jettison his king of diamonds, so he let the 10 of spades go.

South, who had discarded the nine of diamonds on the third club, chucked his queen of diamonds, finessed the spades and made his ninth trick with the spade nine.

For years, network entertainment shows have been concentrated in the nightly prime time period of 7:30 to 11 p.m., and one of the obvious results of the FCC ruling will be a cutback in series and, probably, in what little experimentation there is.

NBC-TV's rationale for its Monday-through-Saturday 8-to-11 p.m. EST schedule is as follows:

—It "protects" the late news and Johnny Carson's "Tonight" show.

—It offers the best positions for accommodating entertainment and news specials.

—It is best for the network's Monday, Tuesday and Saturday night movies because it allows for a lengthy film's runover time-out of the prime hours.

Presumably, also, this means there would be no chance of a time gap that would break the use.

As for the rationale behind the network's Sunday 7:30-to-10:30 p.m. EST schedule, it is simply thought best for the Disney series and what NBC-TV describes as "all-family specials in that period."

The networks feel, by the way, that, for the half-hours beginning at 7:30 and 10:30 p.m. EST, there is no appreciable difference in the number of television sets in use.

A Look at Two Chamber Speakers on Fluoridation

TWO SPEAKERS—If we had to make a decision on fluoridation based solely on two speeches before the Kingston Area Chamber of Commerce, speeches by Dr. Naham Cons and by C. Edward Burtis, we'd pick Cons, hands down.

Cons, who spoke in September, came to talk about fluoridation. He stuck to his subject, threw out a few salient statistics and, in general made sense.

Burtis, on the other hand, was all over the ball park during his speech in opposition to fluoridation on Tuesday morning.

The general theme of his speech seemed to be that pollution is getting the best of us at an accelerating rate and if we don't do something about it we're all goners.

Fine. We don't argue that point. But we were there to record some of the arguments against fluoridation, not Burtis' general ideas on the environment.

When Burtis did wander around to his announced subject he was often vague with his arguments. He made mention of a trip to South America by a group of researchers from the Parke-Davis drug firm in search of new exotic drugs. What they found, Burtis told the Chamber gathering, was a group of natives with black stubs for teeth. Those poor slob lived in a fluoridated area, the speaker said.

The team then moved on to another area. Beautiful teeth. No fluoridation.

It all sounded very nice. One would have a very nice, if not lengthy time, checking that one out.

Burtis also made the point that we should all live to the age of 200 years or so if it weren't for the pollutants. Think that one over.

As for as the Cons speech, his main shortcoming, from where we sat, seemed to be a short fuse. Cons seemed to express extreme irritation to some of the questions from the anti-fluoridationists during the give and take session after his speech. Spiro Agnew might call it effete snobbery. In other words, laymen have no right to ask questions of a professional. In other words, laymen should not question professionals.

Of course, fluoridation is one of those unique controversies where nobody questions anybody anyway. Both sides sit in their forts and hurl invectives at each other. Burtis' admission that he'd never heard of a fluoride dispensing plant going haywire was one of the few times we've heard either side concede a point.

As we said, if we had to decide the issue between Cons and Burtis, we'd give the nod to Cons. At least he stuck to the subject.

SNOW WOES—Right now the mayor and the Common Council are wrestling with new snow legislation. There have been a number of proposals including emergency powers for the mayor (which he already has) but we think the one that will pass, if anything passes, will be the proposal for emergency snow routes.

It's a nice compromise between Mayor Koenig's suggestion for an all night parking ban all winter and the Council's suggestion to basically maintain things the way they are now.

The mayor is of course most concerned with the cost. The bill isn't much for plowing the snow. It's the pickup that costs and if the cars were off the streets, there'd be very little pickup.

That cost, incidentally, runs to about $100,000 per year and it's a reliable figure. In the old days (before Garrahan) they used to float a bond issue to pay for snow removal. It has always cost relatively the same, but the oldtimers used a little fiscal slight of hand to spread that cost over several years.

The mayor should be most cost conscious this time around. This will be his first budget. The one the city is working with now is from last year's mayor, Ray Garrahan.

Koenig, no doubt, will try to look a year ahead. In other words, if he can cut the rate by $15 in the next two years (fiscal 1971 and 1972) he'll go for a five dollar cut this December and if he's running for reelection next October, announce the 10-dollar cut then. It's called smart politics.

We do hope the mayor and the aldermen don't get carried away on these snow cost cutting schemes. As an example, Koenig's original proposal, the all night parking ban, would have resulted in nice clean streets... flooded with Kingstonsians looking for a place to park their cars during the winter. Save as much money as possible, boys, but don't forget who gave it to you.

FAST SHUFFLE—Word from the Democratic camp is, as noted in this space right after the elections, that Aaron Klein, the chairman will be stepping down. We mentioned three other names at that time, Jimmy McCordle, former city chairman who moved to the high rent district in Hurley, Woodstock town Chairman John Bonilla and Saugerties Town Chairman Maurice Hinchey.

The game plan as we now hear it, calls for McCordle moving from his post as state committeeman to county chairman. Bonilla becomes state committeeman. Hinchey heads up a special committee of the party to recruit the 18-year old vote. The Demos figure the only way up is to get the kids on their side. Hinchey sounds like a good man for the job.

Rogers Facing Hostile Senate In Request for Cambodian Aid

WASHINGTON (AP)—Secretary of State William P. Rogers faces stiff questioning from the Senate Foreign Relations Committee on why the administration is recommending expanded military and economic aid for Cambodia seven months after Rogers warned against it.

The date of the possible confrontation over the administration's proposals seems likely to be delayed at least until the week of Dec. 7 by previous commitments of Rogers and Secretary of Defense Melvin R. Laird.

Laird and Senate Republican Leader Hugh Scott sought separate statements Friday to put political pressure on the Senate by contending failure to approve the new program could slow or halt U.S. troop withdrawals from Vietnam.

The Foreign Relations Committee, in a statement issued Friday by chairman J. W. Fulbright, D-Ark., noted that it last discussed the Cambodian situation with Rogers last April 27—just before U.S. and South Vietnamese troops entered that country to clean out Communist "sanctuaries."

"At that meeting," the statement added, "Secretary Rogers expressed the administration's concern that a large-scale military assistance program would probably be followed by a need for military advisers and subsequently by troops. He also emphasized the danger of becoming supportive of the Cambodian government."

Although the transcript of that appearance remains classified, it is understood that Friday's summary understates how strongly Rogers felt about the need to avoid large-scale aid programs in Cambodia and the dangers that could arise.

This is likely to influence skeptical foreign relations committee members when they question Rogers.

President Nixon's proposal calls for $155 million in new aid for Cambodia—$70 million of economic and $85 million military—plus $100 million to reimburse foreign aid accounts for Formosa, Greece and Turkey depleted by earlier transfers for Cambodia. It also calls for $150 million for South Korea, $65 million for South Vietnam and smaller amounts for a handful of other nations.

In addition, the proposal would provide $500 million to finance credits for Israel. Unlike the other items, which require both authorization and appropriation legislation, the Israeli aid already has been authorized.

Thus, it could be appropriated separately from the rest of the package, something administration forces are determined to avoid because aid to Israel has appeal for some senators who oppose aid to Cambodia.

Laird failed to mention the foreign-aid measure Friday when he appeared before the Senate Defense Appropriations subcommittee to ask for restoration of more than $1 billion in defense funds cut by the House.

Together with new items that were not included in President Nixon's budget, Laird's presentation, which he termed "rock bottom," called for a defense appropriation of $68.2 billion, compared with $68.7 billion in the budget and $66.8 billion voted by the House.

Afterwards, the secretary was asked by reporters if U.S. troop withdrawals would be slowed or halted if Congress fails to enact the aid package for Cambodia.

"If the Cambodian forces are unable to contain the North Vietnamese forces" in their own country, he said, these forces would be able to go back into South Vietnam to face Americans and South Vietnamese there.

"This would cause us to look at our troop withdrawal programs and it would have a substantial effect," he added.

Scott said earlier that U.S. withdrawals "would be impeded" by failure to pass the bill, adding that "opposition to this bill is opposition to the continued steady withdrawal of troops."

Teen Faces Sentence on Manslaughter

NORWICH, N. Y. (UPI)—Richard E. Church, 16, of Earlville, will be sentenced Dec. 3 on first degree manslaughter charges in connection with the death of a 39-year-old housewife last summer.

Church, originally charged with murder, pleaded guilty to the reduced charge before Chenango County Court Judge Lynn N. Peterson Friday.

Mrs. Eloise M. Ellison, 39, of Earlville was beaten to death while berry picking in August.

Manson on Stand: 'Killed No One'

LOS ANGELES (AP)—"I've killed no one and I've ordered no one killed," Charles Manson declared in a dramatic, unexpected monologue that wound up testimony in the Sharon Tate murder trial.

Out of hearing of the jury, and over his attorney's objections, the short, dark-haired clan leader talked for about two hours Friday. He emotionally expounded his philosophies, railed against society and rebutted portions of the state case against him.

As he approached the stand he told his three women codefendants, "You don't have to testify now." And the women—who previously had been described by their attorneys as eager to take the stand and confess to save Manson—later withdrew their requests to testify.

Thus the defense formally rested its case without calling a witness. The judge recessed the 23-week-old trial until Nov. 30 to allow both sides time to prepare final arguments for the four charged with the seven murders in August 1969.

Manson's narrative was heard without the jury present so any inadmissible statements could be eliminated. But Manson declined to do a repeat performance, saying, "To repeat what I said would be like I already repeated it. I have already repeated all the pressure I had."

The jury won't hear the testimony, but it remains in the trial record and could be considered if the case is appealed.

At one point, Manson asked that his speech be read to the jury, but at another he said: "I don't recognize the courtroom. I recognize the press and I recognize the people."

The four defense attorneys shocked the court room Thursday by announcing, "The defense rests," just as its case was to open.

They said then they feared Manson's three women followers planned to take the stand and incriminate themselves. "Resting," they said, was a way to stop them.

The women turned the tables Friday morning when they refused to speak outside the jury's presence. Then Manson volunteered to testify.

"The girls were talking about testifying," he said at one point. "If the girls came up here to testify and they said anything good about me, you would have to reverse it and say that it was bad. You would have to say, 'Well, he put the girls up to saying that. He put the girls up to not telling the truth.'"

Manson's attorney, Irving Kanarek, objected several times before this client took the stand, and made several motions for mistrial, all denied. At one point, the judge ordered a bailiff to make Kanarek sit down because he was interrupting Manson.

Manson snapped: "I thought you rested your case, Mr. Kanarek."

Sometimes verging on tears, Manson spoke of his women codefendants and other youngsters who formed his nomadic clan which lived communally at the suburban Spahn movie ranch.

"These children who come at you with knives, they're your children, he said, addressing society in general. "I didn't teach them; you did. I just tried to help them stand up. "Most of the people at the ranch that you call the family were just people that you did not want, people that were alongside the road, that their parents had kicked them out. . . . So I did the best I could and I took them up on my garbage dump and I told them this, that in love there is no wrong."

Manson spoke softly but emotionally, a dramatic figure in baggy prison denim, hunched forward in his chair.

Rebutting testimony of a witness who said he ordered the killings, Manson said: "I don't even like to eat meat because that is how much I am against killing. So, you have got the guy that is against killing on the witness stand, and you are all asking him to kill you."

Repeatedly Manson professed love for the society which had jailed him, saying, "I don't dislike you. . . . You are my blood. You are my brother."

But suddenly, he announced, "If I could I would jerk this microphone off and beat your brains out with it because that is what you deserve. That is what you deserve."

Snag Develops In GM's Return

DETROIT (UPI)—The United Auto Workers' strike against General Motors is officially over after 67 days, but the company says it will be unable to start building cars again until two local disputes are settled.

Both sides were hopeful full production would be under way by mid-December.

UAW President Leonard Woodcock and Irving Bluestone, co-director of the union's GM Department, announced Friday evening that 367,573 union members had voted in the past week to ratify a new, three-year national contract with GM, and that 11,546 had voted against it.

The returns, based on votes from 145 of the union's 155 Chevrolet cars and trucks, and bargaining units in the United States, showed that 85 per cent of the production workers and 80 per cent of the skilled workers wanted to accept the pact, Woodcock and Bluestone said.

In light of these results, the national agreement has been ratified in accordance with the UAW Constitution and the UAW national strike against General Motors Corp. in the United States is terminated," they said.

Despite the end of the strike, Earl Bramblett, GM's chief negotiator, said, "There are two key fabricating plants without new local agreements which are essential to startup. Until local agreements are reached at these two facilities, the automotive system cannot operate."

A GM spokesman said this meant that a few plants may be able to start stockpiling parts and GM's nonautomotive facilities could get back into production, but that no cars or trucks could be built until the local issues at the Fisher Body stamping plant in Mansfield, Ohio, and the Chevrolet supplier plant at Warren, Mich., were settled.

The Warren plant makes wheels and rear axles for Chevrolet cars and trucks, and supplies front suspension components for regular-size Chevrolet, Pontiacs, Oldsmobiles and Buicks.

The new contract, which becomes effective Monday, gives the average GM workers between $12,000 and $13,000 a year and would cost the company $2.4 billion over three years in wages alone. The companies which were not strike targets—in this case Ford Motor Co. and Chrysler Corp.—traditionally accept the virtually identical contract as the strike target.

Smooth Working Trio In $525,000 Robbery

NEW YORK (UPI)—The FBI said today it had no new leads to the identity of three holdup men who made off with more than half a million dollars in cash Friday in an armed robbery which relied on the timing of a coffee break.

The pre-dawn operation was so smooth that it was well into the afternoon before the FBI and New York City police could issue the vaguest of descriptions of the trio.

The $525,000 robbery occurred when the three guards took their standard layover coffee break at a diner in Queens.

One of the guards, Frank Kempinger, 26, of Queens, stayed in the truck while the driver, Henry O'Neill, 49, of Flushing, and John Russo, 38, of Little Neck, went inside—a routine they followed on every trip.

When O'Neill came out, Kempinger recognized him through the shatterproof window and opened the rear door for him to get in.

At that point, three men who had been hiding on the side of the truck, brushed past O'Neill, entered the truck and knocked Kempinger to the floor with a gun butt.

The other two robbers pushed O'Neill into the truck and forced him to the floor.

As Russo came out of the diner, he saw his truck driving away. He called the police.

In a factory parking lot a distance away, the trio passed out the money—in sealed bags—fire brigade style—into two waiting cars.

The two guards, handcuffed together, manned the truck's controls and made it back to the diner—less than half an hour after they left—where Russo was waiting with a large contingent of city police.

The stolen cash was to have been the payrolls for half a dozen city firms. About $100,000 had already been delivered to Kennedy International Airport.

China Sees UN Seat in '71; Claim Trend in Their Favor

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)—The majority vote in the U.N. General Assembly to give Communist China a seat has led to speculation that Peking may be admitted to the world body as early as next year.

There were also forecasts by Peking's supporters that the United States would not succeed again in employing the paralmentary device which kept the Communists out.

Red China won 51 per cent of Friday's vote. The delegates voted 51 to 49 to seat Peking and voted the Chinese Nationalists. Twenty-five members of the 127-nation body abstained. It was the first time in the 20 years of voting on the China question that Peking backers had won a majority. But under the U.S.-backed resolution declaring Chinese representation an important question, a two-thirds majority was needed for approval.

The United States, in statements issued in Washington and New York, conceded that a new situation had arisen which might force a change in its opposition to seating Peking. The statements stressed, however, that the United States also opposes, the expulsion of Nationalist China, a founding member of the 25-year-old world body. This view was echoed privately by other diplomats as well.

Muhammed Yazid of Algeria, spokesman for the sponsors of the pro-Peking resolution, told a news conference that proposal to require a two-thirds vote which was passed 66 to 52—got less support than it did in 1969.

"It is one of those U.S. tricks and doesn't express the legal rules of our charter," he said. He predicted that "very soon, and maybe next year, we will at last have people who speak Chinese among us." The Nationalists usually deliver their U.N. speeches in English.

Many delegates said privately that they thought the U.S. ambassador's speech during the China debate had a strong bearing on the outcome. The speech, by Ambassador Christopher H. Phillips, emphasized Washington's opposition to expelling the Chinese Nationalists and omitted the usual American criticism of Red China.

The Nationalists were said to be upset by Phillips' statement that the United States is "as interested as any in this room to see the People's Republic of China play a constructive role among the family of nations."

Nationalist Chinese Foreign Minister Wei Two-ming showed open concern for what he called the "shifting of positions" by U.N. members on the eve of the China vote, but he expressed gratitude over the support his government had retained.

Nationalist government officials on Formosa reacted to the vote mostly with shocked silence today, but some indicated privately that it meant "we must more and more stand on our own."

Officially, the Nationalist government would say only that "the General Assembly once again rejected the draft resolution" to seat Peking.

Peking had a net gain of three votes from last year, while opponents to Red China's admission recorded a net loss of seven. Communist China's best previous showing was in 1965, when it got 50 per cent of the vote in a 47-47 standoff.

New supporters were Austria, Canada, Chile, Equatorial Guinea and Italy. Two previous Peking supporters, Cambodia and Mauritius, switched from yes to no, but this was not enough to offset changes from opposition to abstention by Peru, Bolivia, Malaysia, Luxembourg, Ireland, Botswana, Cameroon, the Central African Republic and Senegal.

to the dinghy the boys use for fishing on their current coast-to-coast trek from Vermont to California. (Freeman photo by John Kruh)

The Itinerant Craftsman Returns

It looks like an on the road advertisement for mobile homes. And that's exactly what a lot of people mistake it to be.

In reality it is as far removed from advertising as the Shah of Iran from a small town mayor.

It serves as a home away from home for two soft-spoken and artistically talented young men who have succumbed to the pioneering instinct to go west and even further beyond, if present plans do not go awry.

For much of the past week, it's been stopping traffic and eliciting curiosity — first in Woodstock and then in New Paltz. It is a strange-looking but intriguingly attractive rig put together by 25-year-old Girard (Jerry) Jacques, of Montpelier, Vt., and 23-year-old Al Smith, Jr. of New York City.

An A-Frame Camper

Its piece de resistance is a rustic-looking, shingled A-frame camper its owners built themselves — even down to logging the wood. In size and modernity, it can't hold a candle to those block-long trailers that whiz along U.S. highways today, but it boasts a certain uniqueness.

It's as self-sufficient as any aluminum home, pound for pound; exudes twice as much nostalgic charm. Fully equipped with front and back doors, hot and cold water, a work bench for making hand-made bronze jewelry, a small gas stove for cooking and gas mantle lights for after dark hours, it's a cozy home on wheels for its young designers. It also boasts an ice box, a wealth of jewelry-and-leather-making tools, a printing press and — for warmth — an ingenious stove made from an old chicken coop burner.

Pulled by a 1953 pickup truck (its sides panelled to match the A-frame camper), it's stocked with food supplied from the organic garden Jerry and Al planted this summer. Even so, there's still room for enough clothes for all seasons to carry the twosome through what will be a lengthy trip; a bow and arrows for hunting along the way — as well as fishing gear; Al's banjo, innumerable books; acetylene and oxygen tanks used in their jewelry making, a bunk that folds up roofside, and even a urinal.

Atop the truck rests a home-made dinghy and from its sides hang such travel necessities as shovels, buckets, brooms, jugs and a rack in which to carry firewood.

An Old-New Lifestyle

Jerry and Al recall to mind the old, itinerant craftsmen of an earlier era. For anyone who saw them parked on Woodstock's Tinker Street, their lifestyle seemed to hark back to those days when tinkers had indeed plied their trade there. And, in the tradition of the Irish tinkers who wandered along the back roads of Ireland, they work as they travel, making and selling leather goods and bronze jewelry to pay their way.

Their brief Ulster County sojourn was part of a master plan that evolved when the duo decided they had two or three years to spare. They met in Greenfield, Mass., where Al was running a gallery and shop after studying engineering at Pratt Institute and Jerry was working as a sculptor in granite.

Together, they hatched plans to build a geodesic dome, but eventually decided to work their way across America and on to Europe instead.

Once the wood had been logged, the A-frame built, stocked and equipped, and dubbed "The Works," they set out with two dogs — an afghan named "Sun-Light" and a shepherd named Clancy — and Clancy's seven puppies, now six weeks old.

Leaving Gilford, Vt. on Oct. 29, they set up shop for a day or two here and there before motoring on to Woodstock. Stopovers included North Adams, Williamstown, Lennox, Pittsfield and Stockbridge (all in Massachusetts), and Albany and Hudson here in New York.

Friendly Encounters

The rig moves slowly at 40 miles an hour, but this is viewed as no drawback by its owners. There's time to enjoy all the beautiful scenery along the way, and time to make friends with people, almost all of whom have proved "very nice."

Taking secondary routes and selling their jewelry as they go, the plans call for carrying their Vermont license plates all the way to California, a trip they envision as consuming a good two years at the almost snail-like pace they travel. Once arrived in Los Angeles by way of Pennsylvania, Wisconsin, the South and Panama, they hope to have saved enough money to buy a 30-foot sailboat and go to Europe.

Money from the jewelry sales (and the boys have found the jewelry "sells itself") is the key to the whole adventure. Al Smith, who often gets asked if he's related to the late presidential candidate, first began making jewelry as Christmas gifts for friends; is teaching Jerry Jacques this artisan trade. He has learned well, for the barrettes, pendants, hair combs, belts and bracelets are indeed beautiful; sell at reasonable prices (a huge, Spanish type comb, for example, is priced at only $7).

Taking orders as they go (sometimes making them up overnight as fast as they can), they are doing a sizeable wholesale and retail business. How long they stay in any one place depends on business. "If we get lots of orders, we stay longer," says Jerry.

Good Housekeepers

But like anything else, life on the open road can have its ups and downs. So far the ups have outnumbered the downs. People have mostly been friendly and nice and, everywhere, kids have clamored to "get inside" and take a closeup look

HAINES CORNERS STATION, back in those long lost days when the railroad and the No. 2 engine shown were new. The crew and passengers stood for this photographic gem, now owned by the Library of Congress and reproduced in "Rip Van Winkle Railroads" by William F. Helmer.

They Steamed Through Rip's Realm

COVER ILLUSTRATION for author Helmer's latest book is from a drawing by Manville B. Wakefield, artist-historian who has written much about Sullivan County's old railroading days. Any Catskills buff will immediately recognize the symbolism of the bowling pins which have been substituted for the "I's" in the title.

When rural America went to town back before the Jazz Age and the war years, it went by train. And when city America went to the country, it usually traveled on one of four narrow gauge railroads that steamed into the Catskill Mountains, carrying summer passengers to the elegant vacation hotels and rambling boarding houses in Rip Van Winkle country.

A new book that re-creates and reports in depth the four decades that saw these passenger carriers bustling between Hudson River Day Line and Catskill Night Line steamers and connecting railroads has just been published out on the West coast.

It's "Rip Van Winkle Railroads" and its author is William F. Helmer, professor and chairman of the English Department at the State University Agricultural & Technical College at Morrisville. Helmer, who previously wrote "O. & W." which detailed the long life and slow death of the New York, Ontario & Western Ry., has captured all the exciting, early-day operations of the four narrow gauge railroads that burgeoned in these mountains and then disappeared in the wake of the automobile and the coming of turnpikes.

The book conveys the many moods of that colorful period; is burnished with the memories of those who lived through it. And it is profusely illustrated with romantic old engravings and hundreds of photographs selected for their significance as well as their nostalgia.

It was a time of great change for people bent on changing things, and the hotel owners of the Catskills changed their mountain landscapes with the engines, tracks and depots of the Canajoharie & Catskill R.R., the Catskill Mountain Railway, the Catskill & Tannersville Ry., and the Otis Elevating Railway. "Rip Van Winkle Railroads" begins eloquently with these prophetic words:

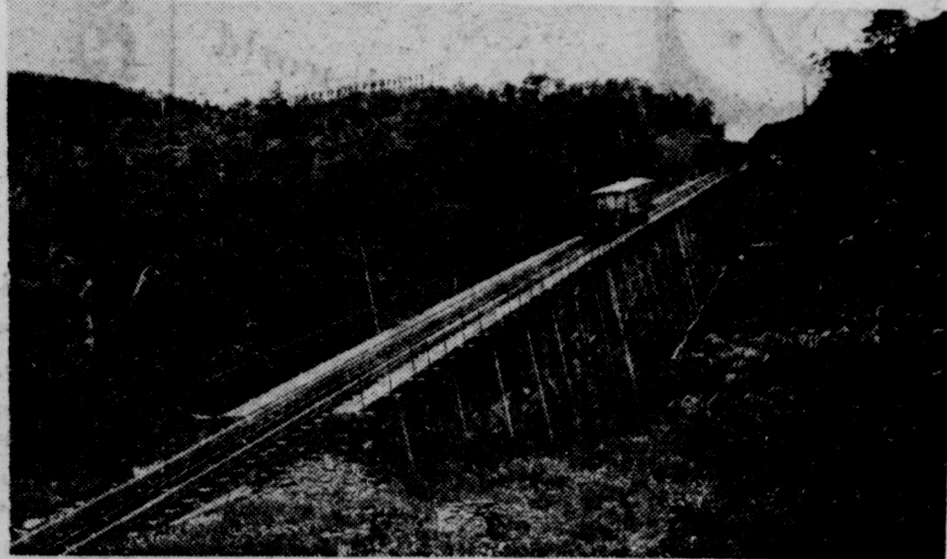

"Nothing could seem more out of time and place than a railway train clanking through the placid Dutch New York village that Washington Irving chose as the home of Rip Van Winkle. Yet not long after the celebrated tale appeared in print, in many little hamlets under the brow of the Catskill Mountains, the Canajoharie & Catskill Rail Road laid its strap-iron rails."

For those who know the tale of this rude invasion into the purple-shrouded Catskill peaks only at second hand, Helmer's book is the best historical buy of the year. It tells the story of those years when a few men put the Catskills on wheels;

They'll Make Musical History Anew With 'Requiem's' Memorable Score

Guest artists—more than 100 strong—will sing the nearly 100-year-old Verdi Requiem with the Hudson Valley Philharmonic this Monday at 8:30 p.m. in Kingston's Community Theatre.

First and foremost among them, of course, will be William Warfield, the brilliant American bass-baritone whose musicianship has never been tinged with insularity. Hailed globally for his role as the cripple of Catfish Row in Gershwin's Porgy and Bess, Warfield has had a distinguished career as baritone, actor and pianist; is making his second appearance with the area Philharmonic.

Guest artists also include soprano Lorice Stevens, who has concertized across the U.S. since her 1964 debut at Carnegie Hall and who is currently touring in a two-man National Theatre Company cultural program. Other "Verdi" guests will be Paul Taylor, the tenor who became an overnight success on Yehudi Menuhin's invitation to solo in the first oratorio concert the famed violinist conducted during the 1968 London Festival; and mezzo-soprano Valerie Baulard, British singer who scored last season at the Glyndebourne Festival Opera under John Pritchard with the London Philharmonic.

A special attraction will be the Community Mixed Chorus, formed in 1949 under the direction of Albert G. Hunter Jr. and boasting 140 voices. After many benefit concerts locally and much acclaim as an integral part in the valley's choral life, the Chorus brings its talent to the Verdi Requiem. For the Kingston program, Claude Montoux will conduct the chorus and orchestra.

Hailed for "making the entire valley reverberate with magnificent sound," the Philharmonic will make musical history anew with the Verdi Requiem for its second performance of the 1970-71 season and its first concert of the year's subscription series for Kingston subscribers.

Those who have not subscribed as yet may buy season tickets at the door Monday night.

All music lovers will certainly want to do so, for the Requiem Mass has been a legendary success since first performed under Verdi's direction in 1874. The composer wrote the Requiem after the death of Alessandro Manzoni, venerated poet, novelist and Italian patriot—and audiences over the years have thrilled to its unforgettable score. Filled with pity and terror from the first hushed measures of the prayer for eternal rest to the calm surety of the quiet ending, the Requiem is moving and memorable.

The performance here in Kingston will be in memory of the late Mrs. Chanler Chapman, who co-published a newspaper with her husband in Barrytown prior to her death.

Gristmill Star Of Exhibition

Philipsburg Manor, the restored early-1700s gristmill-trading center complex in North Tarrytown, is the subject of a black and white photographic exhibition now being held there through Nov. 30.

The exhibition stems from a field trip assignment given by assistant professor Helen Sisserson of New York University to students in her two "Introduction to Photography" courses.

The assignment required that the students "explore the shapes, designs, tones and light values and especially the aesthetic qualities of Philipsburg Manor," according to Miss Sisserson.

Thirty photographs by 15 course members comprise the exhibition. Miss Sisserson, who is also a professional free-lance photographer, noted that the quality of exhibition photography is extremely high for first semester students.

The exhibition is located in the lower gallery of the reception building of Philipsburg Manor, which is on the west side of Rt. 9 in North Tarrytown. The property is open daily from 12 noon to 4 p.m. and weekend hours are 10 a.m. to 5 p.m.

Departs Tradition

Tracy Keenan Wynn, author of an ABC "Movie of the Week" film, "Tribes," has departed from family tradition. His great-grandfather, Frank Keenan, was a Broadway dramatic star early in the century; his grandfather, Ed Wynn, was one of the great comics of the stage; his father, Keenan Wynn, has been an outstanding film and television actor for years.

Growing Steadily in Both Size and Popularity

19—THE DAILY FREEMAN, NOVEMBER 21, 1970

TORAH HEADPIECES, beautifully created in silver by Hyde Park metalcrafter Roger A. Kroll, are currently attracting admiring attention at the Bard Handcraft Exposition and Sale in Bard College's Proctor Art Center.

PRETTY POTTERY PIECES all in a row are the work of Philip Bresler, who heads up his own Freewheel Pottery in Woodstock. Bresler is exhibiting his work in the Bard Expo, now in its fourth year.

Small wonder this show has grown steadily in size and popularity since its inception four years ago. It has always burgeoned with beautiful and intriguing handcrafts, created by the finest area practitioners in their individual fields.

We refer to the three-day Bard Handcraft Exposition and Sale which opened its annual run in Bard College's Proctor Art Center yesterday, Friday, Nov. 20. This year's show, in comparison with its three predecessors, includes more handcrafted items than ever before.

One of the finest features this year is the booth exhibiting Iroquois Indian crafts as executed by the Robert Chrisjohns of Red Hook. The Dutchess County husband and wife team are showing work in traditional designs, including hand carved wooden masks and leather items, and are on hand during expo hours to demonstrate the art of basket weaving.

Honor Award Winner

Another newcomer to the 1970

version of the show is Roger A. Kroll, of Hyde Park, whose stunning creations in silver are among the most pleasing items on exhibit. Kroll has shown his work at the Rochester Institute of Technology, New York State Craft Fair at Ithaca, Poughkeepsie's Temple Beth El (where he had a one-man show last June), and the National Conference of Religious Architecture in Washington, D. C., where he won the "Honor Award" this past April.

Skilled in all phases of metalcraft, Kroll also sculpts in a variety of materials. His work is one of the highlights of the current Bard Expo.

TEMPO urges a visit to the show before it closes. It will be open today until 9 o'clock tonight and on Sunday from 11 a.m. to 5 p.m. Drop into the Proctor Art Center on Annandale Road and browse and buy while enjoying sandwiches, doughnuts, cider or coffee, available at the show through the weekend.

Mood & Color Inspire In Phoenicia Exhibit

Ida Geyler Tollenger is an artist whose paintings vividly and accurately capture the mood and color of the scenes she depicts. The clarity and detail of her work reflects her long training as a commercial artist and illustrator.

All these facets are evident in her current one-man show at the Phoenicia Library, which will continue through Dec. 18.

A native of Cincinnati, Ohio, where she studied at the University of Cincinnati, she also earned scholarships at Cincinnati Art Academy and Pennsylvania Academy of Fine Arts. Her varied background includes work as a free lance artist in the Midwest and East, and employment as a designer, printmaker, illustrator and advertising artist.

Has Taught Widely

Drawn to teaching, she has been an instructor in drawing and painting at the Hawaiian Windward Artists Guild, and in printmaking at the Cincinnati Art Museum. She has also offered private classes and, during residence in Chicago, was chairman-director of the Triangle Art and Community Center in that city's historic Old Town.

She has also lived in Alexandria, Virginia, where she was honored with one of her many one-man shows. Other solo exhibits have been held in such diverse places as Ohio, Texas, Thailand, Hawaii, Illinois and Japan. Praised for her ability to "convert visions into reality," she holds the distinction of being the first foreign woman to be accepted by Nitten, the largest Japanese National Exhibition.

Frequent Award Winner

Her work has been displayed often in many important group shows, and her numerous awards include Virginia's Gilham and Marshall Award, which she won just before moving from that state to Phoenicia last spring.

A member of the American Water Color Society and the National Association of Women Artists, her paintings and drawings are in many private collections, and a collection of her fine aquatones is owned by the University of Cincinnati.

Mrs. Tollenger's paintings are on view at the Phoenicia Library during open hours, 2 to 5 p.m. Monday, Wednesday and Saturday, and 6:30 to 9 p.m. Tuesday, Thursday and Friday.

Three-Part Film Series Opening

"Impossible on Saturday," the highly-touted Israeli film, will be shown for the Newburgh Jewish Community Center's Theater Series on Tuesday, Dec. 1 at 8 p.m. It will be presented at the Mid-Valley Cinema, Mid-Valley Mall, Newburgh.

It'll be a one and only performance of this multi-lingual film whose star, Robert Hirsch, excels in his portrayal of eight different characters. A delightful satire, the film will provide an evening of fun and is recommended for the entire family.

Following the movie showing, all those attending are invited to enjoy refreshments.

"Impossible on Saturday" is the first of the Center's three-part Theater Series. Tickets may be purchased at the door. Further information on the entire series or individual performances is available by calling 561-6602.

331 WALL STREET

KINGSTON, N. Y.

A FLORENTINE dressed in Renaissance costume for the traditional parade and soccer match passes the Palazzo Vecchio in the Piazza Signoria. It's a scene that invokes the past glory of Florence while serving to remind Tempo readers that a Florentine Village not far from the Kingston area is waiting to be visited.

Florentine Village Short Drive Away

Many people don't know that in upstate New York, there's a Florentine village that's a treasurehouse of art. It was built by Mr. and Mrs. Louis Hyde of Glens Falls to house their magnificent paintings, sculpture, tapestries and furniture. The Hydies are now deceased, but they left provisions for Hyde House and its treasures to be maintained for the free enjoyment of the public.

You enter Hyde House through a massive entrance door and find yourself in a red-tiled courtyard, which rises the whole two stories of the house to a skylight dome. The courtyard is planted with philadendron and tall trees, and water trickling from an Italian marble fountain provides background music. The first floor opens on the courtyard and a gallery allows people on the second floor to enjoy the courtyard, too.

Scattered through this beautiful house are works by Rubens, Degas, Titian, Boticelli... even a drawing thought to be da Vinci's study for the Mona Lisa. These masterpieces are displayed in a home... not a museum... and this adds to the viewer's pleasure. The character of the past owners is evident in the furnishings and art works that they chose. A visitor can feel a little envious of those past owners: imagine what it must have been like to have an El Greco hanging on the living room wall!

Hyde House is at 161 Warren Street in Glens Falls — just 40 minutes from Albany on the Northway. It's open all year on Tuesday, Wednesday, Friday and Sunday afternoons.

A Paltz Gift: Indian Library

Via a donation, an excellent addition has just been made to the Sojourner Truth Library on the State University College campus at New Paltz. The Indian Literature and Culture Library of Dr. Lois Teal Hartley has been gifted to the library, named in honor of the famed black evangelist and civil rights worker born in Ulster County in the late 1700's.

The Hartley collection includes more than 600 volumes, many of them Indian novels in original English or in English translation. For students taking courses in Indian Literature, offered by the college's department of English and World Literature, the donation will come as a boon.

Dr. Hartley was, until her death, professor of English at Boston College; also served as editor of "Literature East and West." The gift was made through the Lois Hartley Memorial Fund, and Dr. Alfred Marks, professor of English at New Paltz.

"Literature East and West" was published at SUNY, New Paltz, from 1963 to 1969; is now being published at the University of Texas in Austin.

A Victorian Melodrama Marks PAW's Most Elaborate Effort

Rags to Riches, a Victorian melodrama now entering production under the aegis of Performing Arts of Woodstock, marks a new phase in the history of this ambitious theatre group. P.A.W. has made a concerted effort to engage the energies and talents of the area's youth. High school students are filling many vital capacities in this, the most elaborate production ever staged by P.A.W.

The organization feels it can offer young people valuable training and experience in the crafts and traditions of the theatre, while reaping the benefits of their talent and enthusiasm. It is through involvement such as this that P.A.W. can help to form the producers, performers, and (just as important) the audiences of tomorrow. And thus far, it seems, the collaboration has been a delightful one for all concerned.

Students are participating in all areas, both on stage and behind the scenes. Will Wiedman, who attends Ontario High School, is playing young Ned Nimble, the hero — a character sure to warm the hearts of all Horatio Alger fans. Barbara Buoymaster, also at Ontario, fills the important post of stage manager, and currently has her hands full in helping to supervise the construction of the show's seven sets. Wendy Zeller has undertaken the awesome task of costuming the show.

Sartorial Splendor Needed

By the way, she's looking for turn-of-the-century clothes of all sorts. What about your attic? Is Grandma's old trunk still there? Or Uncle Joe's steamer chest? Who knows what glories of sartorial splendor might be hidden there. Now's the time to search them out. That old gown may steal the show! If you have contributions call Wendy Zeller, West Hurley, or director Steve Callahan, Lake Katrine.

Other students from Ontario who are performing in the olios (entre-acte vaudeville routines) and or helping with scenery props, costumes, etc., include Dinah Carlson, Carol Geertsema, Sue Goddard, Cathy Fisher, Naomi Katz, Laurie Meyer, Eve Moskowitz, Debbie Moskowitz, Claudia Mayer, Mary Prevo, Tandy Sturgeon, Matty Zeller, and Bob Zoefield.

Rags to Riches is providing an exciting extracurricular activity not only for students in the area, but for several faculty members as well. Making their theatrical debut in this area is a very talented couple, Kenn and Mary White, both of whom are on the faculty of Ontario High School. He's an instructor of art; has designed the imaginative sets for the production. She teaches English; brings her considerable acting talent to the role of Flora, mistress of the villain and collaborator in his evil schemes.

Bill Burgin, instructor of earth sciences at Ontario, will be familiar to P.A.W. audiences. He has appeared in several past productions, and now plays the role of Arthur Brown, faithful butler and amateur detective. Last, but far from least, is a person every bit as much a part of a melodrama as the villain's moustache — the pianist, who supplies music for the olios, for intermissions, and mood music to heighten the sentiment or suspense of the scenes being acted. Here again a teacher fills the bill. Donna Eastman, instructor of music at George Washington grade school will be getting a real workout with the ragtime and gaslight melodies that yield so much of the charm of an old show like this.

P.A.W. has found a treasure trove of talent in the students and faculty of area schools. Together with other townspeople far too numerous to mention, they are building a show which you and your family will not want to miss. You can look forward to its big New Year's Eve opening.

Kingston Student In Winning Play

Fred Cantaloupe of Kingston played a leading role in the Mimes and Mummies award winning production of "America Hurrah."

Mimes and Mummies, Fordham University's student theatre group, won the New York State Theatre Association contest for the "best major production." They competed with 15 other college and community theatre groups for the award.

Cantaloupe, who lives at 985 Lincoln Park Place, Kingston, is a senior at Fordham College, Bronx, N. Y.

PRINCE STREET PLAYERS, considered one of the most talented troupes currently performing in the field of children's entertainment, will be appearing at Mount St. Mary College, Newburgh, during the 1970-71 season. They'll bring their production of "Snow White Goes West" to the college's Cultural Centre as part of the children's theatre series there. Parents interested in securing individual events tickets for the series should contact the Cultural Centre, Mount Saint Mary College, Newburgh.

RECORDS

A Compelling 'Il Trovatore'

By DELOS SMITH

NEW YORK (UPI)—Though put together in a London hall, English mezzo-soprano, Janet Karajan had for soloists the newest complete recording of Verdi's "Il Trovatore" has the full flavor of the opera house, and for fully credible reasons.

Leontyne Price, the recording's Leonora, had creatively studied and perfected the role for the Metropolitan Opera's recent production. Sherrill Milnes, one of the best among current operatic baritones, and the exciting young tenor, Plácido Domingo, were also involved in that production.

And so was the conductor, Zubin Mehta, who now is more identified with opera than the symphony. Essentially, then, it requires, and Mehta's command of the orchestral score and his was the Met's outstanding production which was recorded in London. (The high union scales for Met musicians and choristers ruled out a New York recording.)

The Gypsy Mother

In London, the services of the New Philharmonia Orchestra and the Ambrosian Chorus cost much less. Fiorenza Cossotto took over the fourth big role, that of the gypsy mother, most satisfactorily and the lesser roles were filled with local talent.

No one could expect Leonora's music to be more beautifully and compellingly sung than Miss Price sings it. Milnes and Domingo are no less acute in giving all their roles pacing of the singers are of the ultimate (RCA-6194).

Another exciting operatic performance is that of the io. "The Creation," Herbert von Karajan had for soloists Baker, in two of Berlioz's Gundula Janowitz, Christa Ludwig, and Fritz Wunderlich, Werner Krenn, Dietrich Fischer-Dieskau and Walter Berry. His voice and orchestra called "The Death of Cleopatra." The chorus was Viennese and the orchestra was the Berlin Philharmonic. Such resources gave Karajan full scope for his interpretative skills. The recording breathes the spirit of Haydn (Deutsche Grammophon 643515).

Both make enormous demands in emotion and vocal power and finesse. Miss Baker is a marvel. Cleopatra is early and lesser known Berlioz. But brilliant (Angel-36695).

ZUBIN MEHTA was the conductor for the newest complete recording of Verdi's "Il Trovatore," a recording that beautifully recreates the full flavor of the opera house.

Wily Wild Turkeys Escape Thanksgiving Dinner Tables

While there are still an unestimated number of wild turkeys in the back country areas of our own Catskills, the domesticated ones, on a platter, are the big news these days.

Even so, wild turkeys, too, get nervous around Thanksgiving.

Still, unlike their domestic cousins, the wild birds stand a chance to escape the dining table. Frustrated hunters claim the wild turkey has radar vision, sonar hearing, and jet speed.

It Takes a Chief

In one turkey season in Wisconsin, 1,100 hunters beat the woods and bagged a grand total of 18 birds. As an old Indian saying goes, "Any brave can kill a deer; it takes a chief to kill a turkey."

Just a few years ago, the unsuccessful hunter could blame a shortage of birds, but the turkeys have made a remarkable comeback, the National Geographic Society says.

When the Pilgrims celebrated the first Thanksgiving in 1621, they drew on a "great store of wild Turkeys." William Wood, an early Massachusetts colonist wrote, "Sometimes there will be forty, three-score, and a hundred in a flock."

The great store was not destined to continue. Over-shooting, clearing of open woodlands, and a loss of staple food by chestnut blight drove the wild turkey from its original northeastern range.

Has Made a Comeback

Stocking, managed hunting, and habitat improvement have helped bring the bird back. In the West it was become established beyond its former range.

In 1952 the number of wild turkeys was estimated at 97,000. This year game managers believe that 1,250,000 roam 35 states. The birds are important enough to rate a National Wild Turkey Symposium, a meeting that in 1970 reached a raucous climax as dozens of wildlife biologists demonstrated their favorite turkey calls.

Hunters lure the shy birds by sounding keow, keow, keow, a flock's assembly summons. Sometimes they imitate the female's mating cry on a call made from the wing bone of a hen turkey.

Veteran turkey hunters fashion their own calls. A Virginian made his from a hollow wing bone attached to 12 inches of rubber tubing that fits into a homemade tin horn. It gobbles magnificently.

Colorful Mating Ritual

The National Geographic Society's book, Water, Prey, and Game Birds of North America, described the mating ritual of wild turkeys:

"A big male, chest padded with fat to sustain him through the weeks of display, stands in a forest opening and gobbles. Other toms come running, wattles gorged with blood, heads turned bright blue, white, and red with excitement. All gobble, competing furiously for the attention of the hens. The tom that started the uproar may try to drive off the other males, pecking their heads bloody."

"Morning after morning, the prideful promenade continues. Tails fanned, wings dragging the ground, the males strut, flaming cravats quivering. Finally captivated by the big male's performance, a hen throws herself at his feet. In his excitement the cock may trample his harem of three to five hens before mating with them."

Fortunately, this performance takes place in spring, long before Thanksgiving. At the end of the mating season, the wild gobbler is lean and thin, and according to aficionados, his flesh is so rank it isn't fit to eat.

WHEN THE PILGRIMS celebrated the first Thanksgiving in 1621, they drew on "a great store of wild Turkeys" to add to a groaning holiday board.

WITH THE ONCE GREAT store of wild turkeys now depleted, today's Thanksgiving celebrants have happily switched to the plump, domesticated birds.

Itinerant Craftsman

at the intriguing camper. Those who have are always impressed by the good housekeeping and shipshape environs in which hundreds of articles are neatly arranged.

Only in Woodstock, to which they were attracted by the "myth," did the itinerant craftsmen find themselves being "hassled." The town's trespass ordinance, which bars campers from its highways and byways, worked against them—until a few friendly natives rode to the rescue by offering yard space for parking overnight.

In spite of the difficulties, there were new friends to be found in Woodstock and sales to be made. Several days after chugging into the art colony, "The Works" pulled up stakes for New Paltz. Then it was on to Manhattan and a push cart license, and other points east and south before the snow flies.

By trail's end a year or two from now, Al and Jerry will shed their bib overalls, heavy sweaters and boots for canvas boating sneakers and foul weather gear. The A-frame camper and its chicken-coop heater will be replaced by sails in the wind, and the mobile itinerant craftsmen will be afloat on the high seas—heading for Europe.

We're even willing to hedge that prophecy with a bet or two. These two young men are just too, totally self-sufficient and quietly and intelligently confident to miss. (By TOBIIE GEERTSEMA).

Favorite Two

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) —Marlo Thomas and John Wayne have been voted the Favorite stars of 1969-70 in a poll of readers by Photoplay magazine.

Last of the 'Apes'

HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—Twentieth Century-Fox has changed the title of "The Secret of the Planet of the Apes" to "Escape from the Planet of the Apes," indicating this will be the last of the three ape pictures.

Lassie's Stand-In

HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—Laddie, a stand-in and double for Lassie, got a job of his own as a hunting dog in John Wayne's "Million Dollar Kidnapping."

Seneca Captive's Cabin Preserved

Mary Jemison, who has gone down in the history books as "the White woman of the Genesee," was captured by Indians at the age of 15.

That was back in the days when there were Indians around doing such things — long before any of us were around to take sides in the matter.

Adopted by the Senecas, Mary Jemison lived among them for more than 50 years. During her lifetime, she built a log house for her daughter in what is now Letchworth State Park, located some 45 miles southeast of Rochester, N.Y.

It's an interesting spot to visit when you're in this upstate area. And it's open to the public since the Mary Jemison cabin is one of the sites now maintained by the New York State Historic Trust.

Role for Old-Timer

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Old-time vaudeville headliner Bill Walker, of Heywood & Walker, landed a role in "The Million Dollar Kidnapping."

They Steamed Through Rip's

amply reports the lasting mark made by the gigantic hostleries that nestled high on the face of almost every mountain.

Fascinating Tale

For us, the most fascinating tale in Helmer's book is the one devoted to the unique operation of the Otis Elevating Railway. It fascinates even now when only the scarred roadbed remains and the famed Mountain House Hotel at its crest has long since disappeared in flames.

When these railroads were newsmakers, almost half of America's population still lived on the land—and many of the old rural folkways lived on. But the bravado of new adventures was beginning to catch on fast, and in this history of the abandoned railroads of the Catskills, Helmer vividly recreates the revolutionary cycle that transformed American life and was, in turn, transformed itself in the '20s and '30s.

Fifteen years of research went into this book—a beautiful volume of dramatic substance. Published by Howell-North of Berkeley, Calif., is available from Hope Farm Bookshop, Cornwallville, by mail or phone (239-4745) for $7.50, which includes the sales tax.

Dedicated history buffs will want to drive up to the Cornwallville bookshop this Sunday, Nov. 22, when author Helmer will be on hand to autograph copies of his railroading book from 2 to 5 p.m. (By TOBIE GEERTSEMA)

OCCC Sponsors Theatrical Tour

More than half the reservations are already filled for a British Isles theatrical tour planned next summer by Orange County Community College, Middletown.

The college's continuing education office said this week that 21 persons have signed up for the July 6-20 trip which includes attendance at four London stage performances, one at the Royal Shakespeare Theater, and visits to the Bard's birthplace, The Strand, and Drury Lane Theater.

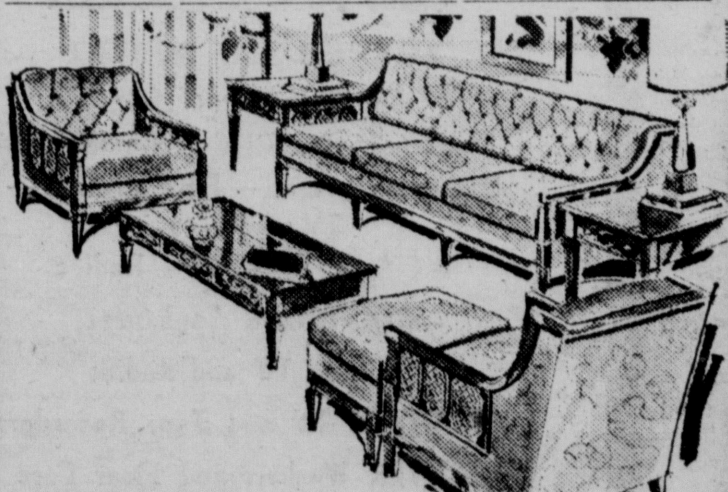

Mrs. Mary B. Barrett, professor of English at OCCC, will lead the trip, and deliver four pre-tour lectures in the spring concerning the English stage, contemporary British theater, and the Shakespearean Theater.

Cost of the OCCC trip is $550. Registration information is available from Mrs. Marilyn Wheeler at OCCC, telephone (914) 343-1614.

Big Grant for PBS

Public Broadcasting Service has received a $1 million grant from the Mobil Oil Corporation that will enable it to bring to more than 200 of its educational video stations a 39-week series of one-hour dramas produced by the British Broadcasting Corporation. The series will be seen under the title, "Masterpiece Theater."

"We are extremely pleased by the excellent response and generous contributions of the local artists," said Sister Francis Joseph Egan, C.P., director of the library, "and we anticipate an equally good response from area residents in attending our first Thanksgiving Art Festival and Sale." She added that the date and time of the special exhibit had been planned to give businessmen, as well as their families and other interested persons, an opportunity to attend.

A few words on the service rendered by our competition...

Lots of people are grumbling about the poor service they're getting on their television sets and stereo equipment. In defense of these charges, may we point out that industry has lured servicemen away from service shops . . . and a good man nowadays is hard to find.

At Markle's, we've been servicing ailing radios, TVs, and stereos for over 40 years. In fact, we serviced them long before we sold them, and now have the largest service department in the Mid-Hudson Valley, as well as the largest selection of new sets.

In our service department, our servicemen boast 95 years of service experience.

Of course, we do our best to avoid inconvenience to our customers with service problems by carrying the most trouble-free brands we can find: Magnavox, Sylvania and Motorola. We now offer:

MICHAEL BRANDON and BONNIE BEDELIA are the couple responsible for all the fun in the uproarious "LOVERS AND OTHER STRANGERS," on the of the best and most rewarding movies of the year. It's now featured at Kingston's Mayfair.

MOVIES

Rumpelstiltskin

This is another of the great Grimm fairy tales and it's featured in children's matinees today and tomorrow only at Kingston's Community.

Produced by K. Gordon Murray, the man who gave us the classic "Santa Claus," as well as "Little Red Riding Hood" and "Puss in Boots," it revolves around a plot all youngsters know by heart. There's Rumpelstiltskin, the mad little man of amazing magic, and there's the poor millers daughter who finds herself royally wedded after spinning straw into gold.

If you've been critical of late because you couldn't find a movie suitable for your children, you'll find this classic fairy tale just the ticket. All the color and beauty of the original story is here, and it was filmed in the setting the Grimms knew best and wrote about — the castle dotted landscape of Bavaria and the Rhineland. Needless to say, there's no horror, no violence, no frightening characters—just the simple beauty of good triumphing over evil.

Lovers and Other Strangers

Here's a funny film about love, marriage and sex — done so uproariously and in such quaint good taste that it emerges as both touching and hilarious.

"Lovers and Other Strangers," now playing at Kingston's Mayfair through next Tuesday, is a delightful and witty movie with just the proper touch of naughtiness. It stars two beautiful young people (Michael Brandon and Bonnie Bedelia) as a couple of average New York kids who fall in love on their honeymoon — and get married. The people involved in the story are all wonderful, too — good, middle-class, Italian-Americans.

The young players are among the most talented to come along in a long, long time. And the old pros (Anne Meara, Gig Young, Cloris Leachman, Anne Jackson, Harry Guardino) are excellent.

A Legal Honeymoon

Bonnie Bedelia (remembered as the pregnant young wife in "They Shoot Horses") and Michael Brandon (who was in "Goodbye, Columbus") are the lovers who, after living together two years, decide to get married and resume their honeymoon — legally. When lovers in films marry these days, that's quaint enough. But when they do it against a background of such humor and realism, that's marvelous entertainment.

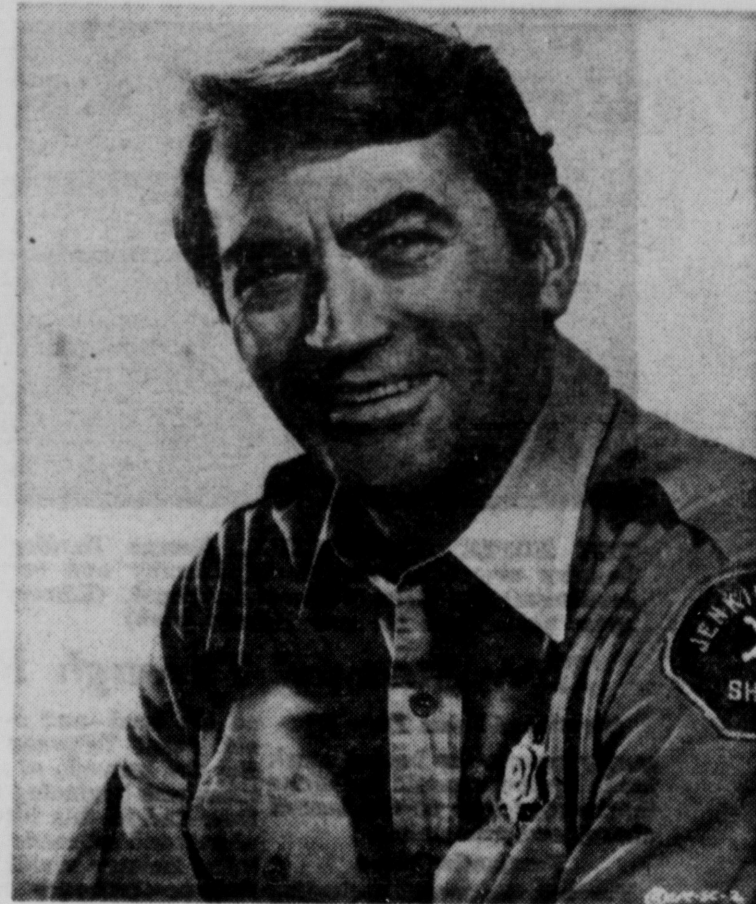

Entertainment that makes the audience aware of a young man's fears that marriage might end a beautiful romance, that clues movie-goers in on the perils of a blind date, that realistically tackles the problem of divorce, and that manages to cope with a wife's age-old questioning of her husband's masculinity.

Light, romantic and sympathetic, "Lovers" is definitely a film to see. It's filled with laughter from beginning to end.

I Walk the Line

Featured at Kingston's Community now through next Tuesday is "I Walk the Line" in which Gregory Peck plays a different kind of sheriff. Gone is Peck's usual image of a man of strong purpose and high integrity. In this one, he's a rural Tennessee law officer trying to escape an unhappy marriage.

His love affair with the young, sensuous daughter of a moonshiner leads him steadily to compromise his professional responsibility and moves him into greater conflict and tragedy.

Tuesday Weld is cast as the alluring young backwoods girl who becomes so romantically involved with sheriff Peck that he is moved to abandon his marriage — and does indeed abandon the law when he "crosses the line." Estelle Parsons suffers as only she can suffer as Peck's unhappy wife. Ralph Meeker is the moonshiner who works unhindered at his illicit whiskey-making, once he understands the sheriff enough to use him.

Maybe You'll Relate

You just might get something entertainment-wise from this film if you are convinced that men do get themselves into such fixes and find there is no solution. Maybe you'll relate to Peck and his problems. And maybe you'll enjoy seeing him out of stereotype as a non-heroic character.

An added attraction for some movie-goers will be Johnny Cash, singing seven of his own songs on the film's sound track. Cash, who keeps adding to his collection of gold records, is expected to get another for his soundtrack album from this movie.

As for us, Gregory Peck romancing in a Tennessee dialect just isn't enough. We still prefer him as the Lincolnesque small Southern town lawyer in "To Kill a Mockingbird."

Borsalino

This one we liked — but then, over the years, we've liked just about every French film dealing with thieves, gangsters and criminal capers. "Borsalino," now playing at Hyde Park's Roosevelt, is for the traditional lover of the French flair at depicting Gallic Al Capone and Machine Gun Kelly types.

It's a lavish production set in Marseille in the 1930's and it stars Alain Delon and Jean-

RAQUEL WELCH is the Myra of "Myra Breckenridge," the film now featured at Woodstock's Tinker Street Cinema. But before a delicate operation, she was Myron Breckenridge, a young homosexual who submitted to castration. As Myra, she/he undertakes a personal crusade to symbolically castrate all males and seduce all females. Rex Reed plays Myron and Mae West totters on screen as a talent agent. Before it's over, the audience begins to wonder just which of the three is really the transsexual victim—but if anybody gets victimized by this mishmash, it's the audience.

One of the Few True Bullfighters

In the Presence of Death: Antonio Ordóñez, by Shay Oag. (Coward McCann, $15)

The latest book in English for bullfight aficionados is less a biography of Antonio Ordóñez than it is an account of his best, worst and most important fights in a career that began in 1943 and is still in progress.

Miss Oag, who obviously is among the many aficionados who consider Ordóñez one of the few true figures in bullfight history, has built her book primarily around more than 200 photographs that illustrate Ordóñez' life from the time he began practicing with the cape at age 4 to his triumphs since returning to the bullring from two years in retirement in 1964. Miniature Biographies

Her chapters on Ordóñez late father, himself a bullfighter known as "Nino de la Palma," and his mother, a gypsy flamenco dancer, approach biography in miniature.

In an unfortunate sidetrack, however, Miss Oag found it necessary in a book on Ordóñez to devote an entire chapter to criticism and ridicule of one of his current rivals, Manuel Benítez who, under the name of "el Cordobes," is a major if controversial figure and influence in the bullfight in his own right.

Story of Lincoln

Lincoln, A Picture Story of at Cooperstown, N.Y., covers his Life by Stefan Lorant. (Norton, $7.95)

Lorant, who came out with the definitive "Lincoln, His Life in Photographs" in 1941, finally has completed his research into Abraham Lincoln's life. To say this final edition is superlative hardly does it justice.

It is almost inconceivable to think of a book on a subject of such import that is as researched, cross-researched and re-researched—and still is as handsome—at this 336-page work. Lorant not only covers Lincoln from stem to stern but side to side.

Not Only Lincoln

And what's more, Lorant presents not only Lincoln but just about anyone who had more than a passing reference to Lincoln's life.

Lorant blankets Lincoln as thoroughly as the Hall of Fame

In '40s, American Underground Operated in a Manhattan Hotel During Jewish-Arab 'Flareup'

THE PLEDGE. By Leonard Slater. Simon & Schuster. $6.95. This amazing true story reads like a suspense novel.

From the end of World War II until May, 1948, when Palestine ceased to be a British protectorate and had to fight the Arabs for survival as the state of Israel, it had to struggle with frantic desperation to acquire arms for the coming war—which it finally won in 1949.

Shooting Irons

An American underground played a major part in getting those arms. Palestine needed not only money and nonwar items; it needed every sort of weapon that would shoot.

The underground operated from a small residential hotel in upper Manhattan, one of those quiet places full of little old ladies. One cell of the operation hustled all over the country buying up weapons, ammunition, radios and special machinery for making ordnance, while another branch took care of smuggling the material out. Another cell trained commando-type warfare operations. Another set up a clandestine radio network.

The underground even bought ships for transport and an escort aircraft carrier (which never reached Palestine).

But the most fantastic part of the operation involved aircraft. The agents bought up all transports that the United States was selling as war surplus, and tried to get them out of the country—legally or otherwise. Panama was used as a fake base for this venture.

Secret Czech Base

Ironically, Palestine had bought some German fighter planes from Communist Czechoslovakia, and finally there was a secret base at a Czech airfield—manned largely by American technicians—from which the fighters were ferried to Palestine inside the transport planes that had been hustled out of America.

It was a nick-of-time operation. The Jewish forces were in danger of losing the war when the first four fighters arrived in Palestine; the planes slowed an armored column of Arabs who were headed for Tel Aviv, and the tide was turned.

Slater has filled his account with hundreds of vivid incidents and hundreds of personal stories. It makes fiction pale in comparison, and it has an electrical urgency that grips the reader.

The Life Styles On Our Campuses

THE GRIM GENERATION. By Robert Kavanaugh. Trident. $5.95.

It is Kavanaugh's purpose to explain to over-30 adults what life is like on the college campus these days. He has had 17 years of experience working with students as a lecturer, administrator, pastor and counselor.

Utilizing scores of case histories about a certain Jack or a certain Susie, he describes the various "life styles" that he has observed on campus. The book gets its title from only one of them—a type of student whose face usually is a grim mask, and who seems to have lost all sense of humor.

There also is a "kept generation," whose distinguishing feature is that they find everything "blah" and full of boredom. Next is the "graveyard generation," involving dropouts, and then the "monastic generation," consisting of those who plug for grades and refuse to have anything to do with campus activities.

Kavanaugh has a sympathetic attitude toward campus hippies, as distinguished from other hippies. But he points out that often a student who looks like a hippy really is as square as anyone can be. He also discusses "waterboy alumni," those perennial hangers-on who stay around the campus long after they have stopped going to classes.

Other categories are "benevolent dreamers," whom he considers a bit too idealistic, and "malevolent dreamers," whose radicalism sometimes is a pose.

The author makes a plea for better faculties—more involved with the students than with research—and for better curricula that meet student needs.

SOPHIA LOREN goes motorcycling in scene from "SUNFLOWER," the film in which she seeks for the truth of her missing husband across the face of Europe, from Italy to Russia. The movie is the current attraction at Rosendale Theatre.

Movies

Paul Belmondo as the men who become big-time gangsters. To al charmers, they kid and kill air way to illegal riches. There's lots of blood but against those fantastically detailed and lush-looking period sets, you'll hardly notice the slaughter.

Sunflower

At the Rosendale Theatre currently is this story of Giovanna and Antonio and their shattered love. Giovanna is Sophia Loren and, after years of thinking her husband lost on the frozen Russian steppes during World War II, she takes it into her head that he's still alive.

She goes wandering off into the Soviet Union to find him — and does. Frozen, he's not — but a bigamist he is. Antonio (Marcello Mastroianni) has a Russian wife and a little daughter. Sophia weeps for love once shared and now no more...and goes back to Italy. Marcello follows and a soap opera ending bubbles up. And if the bambino who spells finis to the love affair looks as if he could be Sophia's own — he is. Sophia and her husband, Carlo Ponti — who produced "Sunflower" — have cast Carlo Ponti, Jr. as the little darling who resolves all the plot convolutions.

The Bird With the Crystal Plumage

Thrills and chills abound in this film that slithers and sneaks its way through a story about a Jack the Ripper type killer. There's a fair share of blood and gore as the perverted killer flashes his dagger in the direction of any number of young girls. But there's suspense, too, in this thriller from abroad, now playing at the Lyceum in Red Hook.

FRANCO NERO is the brooding gypsy and Joanna Shimkus the maiden who yearns for liberation in "The Virgin and the Gypsy." The film, based on a D. H. Lawrence story, is the current attraction at the New Paltz Cinema.

Theatre Works and Russian Songs Featured in Vocal Arts Seminar

Karen Ranung, soprano, who has become well known as soloist and teacher in this area, successfully initiated the second series of Seminars for the Vocal Arts this past Sunday at Ascension Parish Hall, West Park.

Using the effective pararecital format for the seminars, she presented a number of her advanced students in a most interesting program featuring the works of Wagner, Schumann, Bach, Mendelssohn, Schubert, Durante and Brahms. Throughout the entire seminar, Miss Ranung stressed the role of the soloist, for it is he, though his vocal skill who interprets the music of the composer she said. The soloist, she noted, must formulate his own impressions and transmit those impressions to the listening audience; thus and very important factors of vocal technique combined with emotion, mold into one, creating a mood to which the audience responds.

Theatre Works

The Nov. 22 seminar will not only feature the advanced vocal students of Miss Ranung, but will, in addition present Diane Spinski, soprano, a student of voice and drama at Hunter College. Miss Spinski has been active in theater groups in this area, and has portrayed the role of Portia in "The Merchant of Venice." She will present works from the theater.

Also featured will be Lydia Small, lyric soprano, who will sing a group of Russian songs. Miss Small has become known as a soloist in the Wappingers Falls area.

The public is invited to attend the seminar which will be held this Sunday at 3 p.m. at Ascension Parish Hall, West Park.

Reasoner Moving To New Network

NEW YORK (AP) — Harry Reasoner will leave CBS to join ABC on Monday, Dec. 7, as coanchor of the network's evening news show, replacing Frank Reynolds.

ABC said today that Reasoner would share duties on the show with Howard K. Smith, another former CBS newsmen, who is in Washington.

An industry source said Reasoner had signed a five-year contract with ABC for a salary of about $200,000 a year.

Reasoner, who joined CBS News in 1956, is cohost of "60 Minutes," with Mike Wallace, and anchor of the CBS Sunday News.

ABC has had its news program under almost continuous revision in recent years in an effort to improve its third-place standing, far to the rear of CBS and NBC.

An Anniversary

NBC's "Meet the Press" interview program observed its 23rd television anniversary Nov. 6.

ERNESTLY SPEAKING

FIVE MORE DAYS!

By this time next week, Thanksgiving Day will have left you (I hope) with pleasant memories, a contented tummy, and a deep appreciation of all that we have to be Thankful for.

Let's not underestimate the gratitude we owe for this blessed land, whether your parents came over on the Mayflower or only a generation ago, as mine did. No matter what we think is wrong with the U.S.A. (and we must admit that there are some things we'd like to see improved) we still have much, much more to be Thankful for than most any other people on this great green footstool. As for me . . .

I'm THANKFUL that my folks came to America, so that I could be born here, grow up here, go to school here . . . to play, to find work, to go into business, to make a living.

I'M THANKFUL that I can think as I please, worship as I please, vote as I please, choose my own friends, my own vocation and my own avocations.

I'M THANKFUL that you can do that, too . . . that makes us even, so I don't have to envy you, and you don't have to envy me. Above all . . .

I'M THANKFUL so many of you have taken kindly to ROBERTO'S . . . and that reminds me to remind you of something else we can be Thankful for: We can eat as we please! Naturally, I'm hoping it will please those of you who aren't having a Family Dinner at home, to enjoy Thanksgiving Dinner at ROBERTO'S. Just $5.95 for the full course Turkey Dinner, with all the traditional trappings . . . and a mere $3.95 for children under 10. Served all day from Noon . . . and Reservations definitely are advised.

AMONG THOSE PLEASANT

On Sunday, Nov. 15th, some 25 guests celebrated the Anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Ellsworth, at a lovely Dinner tendered by their daughter, Mrs. Arthur Libourel, of Vincentown, N. J.

Another 25 celebrants made merry, on the same Supper Afternoon, to mark another Birthday for Eddie Esposito.

I keep forgetting to pin down the serial numbers of most anniversaries and birthdays celebrated at ROBERTO'S, but what matters it? The Ellsworths know how long they've been wed, and Eddie knows how old he is. ROBERTO'S wishes them many more of the same, same.

And that also goes for Dr. Courie, who didn't specify any number of candles on the Cake for Betty's Birthday Dinner. Watching her enjoy the occasion, I've got to tell you that the good Doc obviously has the right prescription.

And this past week ROBERTO'S had the pleasure of serving two Dinner parties of special significance to any Hudson Valley restaurateur. Mr. and Mrs. John Foglia, Jr., of the famed "Ship's Lantern" enjoyed dinner with their guests, Mr. and Mrs. Phillip Carroll.

The second party from that renowned restaurant consisted of Ralph with his lovely wife and their guests.

Needless to say, "The Ship's Lantern" is a tradition which has inspired many a good restaurant in the Newburgh area, and far beyond. Founded some forty years ago by the same John Foglia who was an original founder of the Chef Boyardee Company, it has maintained a standard to which dedicated restaurant men must adhere. I devoutly hope that here at ROBERTO'S we will have the talent, the good taste and the steadfastness of purpose to emulate, in our small way, the achievements of "The Ship's Lantern." And can you blame me for wishing ourselves the same number of years in Business?

MISH MASH

The "Saturday Night Songfest" at ROBERTO'S Cocktail Lounge is becoming more "spectacular" every week, as Mark Garrison presides at The Hammond, while what bids fair to become a "regular cast" helps him present an "Extemporaneous Extravaganza of Elite Entertainment." (I got that from an old Minstrel Poster.)

The cast includes such "regulars" as Augie, Tony "Red" Amato, Fran and Vie . . . and at the last session, Dee Woinoski contributed a new touch of talent with some wonderful songs. I dislike to use a beat-up phrase such as "a good time was had by all" but that exactly describes the "Saturday Night Singalongs" in the Cocktail Lounge.

Until next week . . . Don't Do a Thing about that Luncheon or Dinner Party you may be planning, until you've compared what ROBERTO'S will give you for your money. And let's remember to be Thankful 52 weeks a year.

Ernie

POTPOURRI

By JOAN L. WOINOSKI

For people with-everything-plus, J. Carlton's gift guide offers a bevy-of-bizarre-bargains. There's gimmicks for kids from diaper-stage to dungarees to college degrees, as well as bagatelles for mom, dad, and shirt-tail relation.

Beer-Maker Kit to brew one's own—Federal law permits head-of-house to make, tax-free, up to 200 gallons per year for family use. Teetotalers will find it great for shampooing hair. (Remember, family that drinks together—well, you figure it out.)

Incredible Infinity Lamp, so exquisite it staggers imagination. (Just what doctor ordered for upper-crust-pals who boast navy-blue-blood.) . . . Fluorescent Bikini glows in dark; guaranteed to turn-him-on. (Can conceivably corrupt choir boys, more's-the-pity!) . . . Tiny Umbrella that folds flat as pack o' fags but opens wide to ample size. (Keeps raindrops from fallin' on one's head, tra la.)

Fascinating Ant House: escape-proof construction, built-in magnifier AND coupon for supply of ants. Watch nature's smallest engineers build bridges, dig tunnels. (What training for craftsmen hooked up with urban renewal!) . . . Genuine Pine Seeds planted in prepared soil to grow one's very own Christmas tree in-a-can. (Guess the status-isn't-quo anymore!)

Golfer's Saga: hole-in-one buffs'll appreciate genius that caught frustrations of game in wrought iron spike figures—"Tee Off," "The Swing," "The Disappointment." Ideal for any golfer who's ever missed a shot. (Are there any others?—Don't point!)

. . . Doggie Umbrellas for favorite canine. (And they said it couldn't be done! It's called "puppy love.")

Electric Treasure Probe, transistorized detector to take to Broadway-East. (Who knows! Could be oil-or-ore in them-thar canyons. One hitch; even Lawrence of Arabia couldn't whip through the dust.) . . . Kids Wigs, available in blonde, brunette, redhead. (Small enough for Yul Brunner-style sire to use as toupee.) If that fails, there's "How I Stopped Growing Bald and Started Growing Hair," probably most a mazing book ever penned 'bout problem which turns men gray, if they're lucky. (If that doesn't work, you've been had!)

Nicotine-Free Cigarettes made from specially processed lettuce leaves one may inhale without worry. (Mentholated, too, and would we lie to you!) . . . If that doesn't work, there's Turn-Off Cigarette Holder, perfected to make smoker start-to-stop gradually—that is to say, kick-the-habit—without nicotine fit along-the-way. (As we live n breathe, won't Cancer Society's Madeline Wendrow jump-for-joy! Puff, puff! Pant, Pant!) . . . Pink Satin Musical Pillow that plays "Some Enchanted Evening" as one drifts off to sleep. (Remember old days when one counted sheep?)—Ah, such advances! Goodnight, Chet. Goodnight, David.
